STATE CONVENTIONS.

IOWA, TEXAS, MASSACHUSETTS AND WISCONSIN.

The Two Conventions at Work in Massachusetts—Platforms Framed for the Workingmen—The Republicans of Texas Resolve on Fusion With Democratic Soreheads.

WORCESTER, Mass., September 3.—The democratic state convention was called to order at 11:35 a. m., by General Collins, who congratulated the democratic party upon the certainty of success in November. On motion of General Corse, the officers of the state committee were made the temporary officers of the convention. Committees on credentials and permanent organization were appointed. The committee on credentials reported that 22 cities and 325 towns were represented by 1,650 delegates. Jonas H. French was made permanent chairman, and J. W. Coveney, of Cambridge, and P. J. Donnovan, of Boston, secretaries. Colonel French then addressed the convention. His remarks were repeatedly applauded, especially every allusion to Governor Cleveland. The reference to the third candidate for the presidency, General Butler, was met by hisses from a number of delegates, which quickly subsided, when Colonel French, in the same sentence, said he felt no unkindness toward General Butler, but only regret at his action.

Committees to nominate members of the state central committee to complete the balance of the state ticket, and on resolutions were appointed.

NOMINATIONS FOR GOVERNOR.

Mr. Jarvis N. Dunham, of Pittsfield, in a speech of some length, presented the name of Hon. Samuel W. Bowerman, of Pittsfield, as a candidate for governor. He urged that the undoubted ability and unquestioned integrity of Mr. Bowerman gave him special claims which should not be disregarded.

E. P. Turner, of Newton, moved the nomination of Bowerman by acclamation, but finding the motion vigorously opposed, withdrew it.

Mr. Gorgan, of Boston, offered a resolution, which was referred, that the attention of the next legislature be called to the necessity of limiting the hours of woman's labor, and providing for the improvement of shops, etc., where they are employed, and that the law which excludes employes from the right to recover damages from railroads and other companies for injuries received, while in the discharge of their duties, should be reformed.

Another resolution, which was referred, to the effect that no person holding rank or title from any foreign prince, power or potentate, shall hold, in his own right, any real estate in this commonwealth.

At 2:10 the convention re-assembled, and the name of Hon. William C. Endicott, of Salem, was presented.

Thomas J. Gargan, of Boston, seconded the nomination. He came to the convention prepared to vote for Bowerman, but since the recess it had been ascertained that Endicott would accept. Such nomination would greatly strengthen the party. The names of Charles P. Thompson, of Gloucester, Leopold Morse, of Boston, and P. A. Collins, of Boston, were then put in nomination. At 2:25 the convention proceeded to take an informal ballot. Pending the ballot resolutions were read and adopted, and heartily applauded, and the delegates responded and gave their voice for Grover Cleveland for next president of the United States.

Jonas H. French, of Boston, and Hon. Reuben Noble, of Westfield, were nominated as presidential electors at large. Resolutions were adopted, providing that the sense of the convention is that all congressional conventions be held on or before October 1st, and that the councillor and county conventions be held as soon thereafter as possible.

A HITCH IN THE BALLOTS.

The chair announced that the chairman of the committee of counting the ballots, stated that a package of votes had been found so closely put together that they must have been cast by mistake, and the committee requested that the convention proceed to another informal ballot. It was moved to proceed to another ballot, and the committee took its place upon the platform, and the delegates passed in front of the committee as they cast their ballots. Colonel Hoggett moved that the committee be instructed to throw out the bunch of ballots in question, and then report the state of the vote. After considerable discussion the amendment of Colonel Hoggett was carried by a large majority. While the convention was awaiting the report of the committee General P. A. Collins made an address. The committee soon reappeared to report, and Colonel French announced that the chairman had informed him that it would be impossible to comply with the vote of the convention.

The committee were then discharged, and a formal ballot was ordered. The delegates were ordered to pass over the stage and deposit their votes with the chairman and the secretary.

ENDICOTT NOMINATED.

On the informal ballot Hon. Wm. C. Endicott was nominated for governor. Whole number of votes cast 721, necessary for a choice 361, Wm. C. Endicott 385, Samuel W. Bowerman 132, Edward Avery 95, Leopold Morse 105, scattering 5.

The committee chosen to nominate 15 members at large of the state central committee submitted their list, which was adopted. The nomination of Endicott was made unanimously, and the balance of the ticket was completed as follows: Lieutenant governor, Jas. S. Grinnell; secretary of state, Jeremiah Crowley; treasurer and receiver, General Charles Marsh; auditor, John Hopkins; attorney general, John W. Cummings. A resolution was adopted pledging support to the candidates named. The convention then adjourned.

THE PLATFORM ADOPTED.

The following is the platform:

The democratic party of Massachusetts, by its representatives in convention assembled, extends its congratulations to the democratic party of the United States on the brilliant prospect of the restoration of an honest national government, through the election of its candidate for president and vice-president—Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks. It declares its assent to, and its unqualified approval of, the platform of principles adopted by the national democratic convention held at Chicago. It believes that an administration conducted on these principles, would secure to the people the greatest blessings, a free country, the exact equality of every citizen under the law, justice unbiased by race, color or creed; laws enacted in the interest of the many and not of the few; not in an increase of monopolies, nor for the promotion of capital, but to secure that harmony between capital and labor, by arbitration or otherwise, by which each shall receive its just proportion of the joint production, affording the fullest protection to labor without disturbing the rights of property; care for the husbanding of the public domain for the use of the people, and not to be squandered as bribes or subsidies to corporations that become vast landed monopolies; just and rigid economy in expending the people's money, never niggardly; being just to the people who pay and to those who receive; a system of taxation by customs duties that shall impose no unnecessary burdens on the people, be sufficient for the ordinary requirements of the government, and thus save the industries of the people from competition with the surplus products of other nations; war taxes in time of war, peace taxes in time of peace, with no vast surplus in the treasury to excite cupidity or to encourage extravagance; an American navy that shall not be a disgrace to the country, and the jeer and byword amongst the nations of the earth; the restoring of our shipping so that the products of our industries may be borne on American bottoms, under the stars and stripes on the great highway of nature; a return to that high and just sense of American citizenship which characterized democratic administration, and secured for every citizen of the United States respect throughout the world, and which tolerates no interference by foreign powers with the personal liberty of the citizen and guarantees him when charged with crime in another country, not only a prompt, but a fair trial; civil service based on the principles applied by Governor Cleveland in New York, which he describes as follows: "The people pay the wages of the public employes, and they are entitled to fair and honest work, which the money thus paid should command. The selection and retention of subordinates in government appointment should depend upon their ascertained fitness and the value of their work, and they should neither be expected nor allowed to do questionable party service; and a simple, honest government administered in strict conformity to the constitution."

It must be a cause of humiliation to every good citizen that one of the great parties, representing nearly one-half the voters of the republic, has placed in nomination for the high office of president one whose public record is such that it requires the highest exercise of human credulity, as well as the greatest effort of human ingenuity on the part of his supporters, to make it even in appearance consistent with the lowest standard of official honesty.

It is a cause of satisfaction that the democratic party has placed in nomination one whose record places him among the foremost executive officers of the land; faithful in the discharge of every duty; a careful guardian of the people's money; true to his own sense of duty; firm and just, modest and dignified; not self-seeking; never subordinating public duty to selfish ends. It is also cause for congratulation that it has a candidate for vice-president who, as a legislator and governor, has demonstrated his eminent abilities and the purity of an honest heart. With such candidates and such principles of government to guide them, the democratic party of Massachusetts appeals to all men in the state, irrespective of party, race, creed or color, for the honor of the American name, in the interest of pure government, to join in its efforts to place Massachusetts in the column of states declaring for honest government under Cleveland and Hendricks.

For the past twenty years the republican party has had almost absolute control of the affairs of the nation in all its departments—legislative, executive and judicial. It cannot, therefore, shirk its responsibility for our crippled industries, our idle factories, ship yards and work rooms, and our unemployed workmen.

The republican party has shown profound indifference to the welfare of our fisheries. It has permitted the fishermen to be crushed. The concessions of the treaty affords them no protection against the usurpations of Great Britain. Unless some change in the policy of neglect occurs, which can only be brought about by a change in administration, our fisheries must, like our fishing interests, dwindle and decay.

The democratic party has ever been striving to promote the interest of the working mass of the people. It renews its pledge, heretofore made, to promote their welfare, protect them against the aggression of monopoly, and secure them such legislation as will assure them the highest return for their labor and amplest protection in their lives and liberties, and in their pursuit of happiness, and referrs with pride to what has been accomplished by its persistent effort.

It earnestly calls the attention of the legislature to the necessity of further legislation in behalf of our working masses, restricting the excessive hours of labor, and providing for a greater salary and better sanitary condition of the shops and buildings in which they are employed. The policy of this state should extend to those whose capital is their labor, like freedom to co-operate and combine for their own interest, and for the lawful purposes which is given any portion of our citizens, and we deprecate all legislation that impairs their equal rights or imputes the integrity of their character and their intelligence, or seeking to protect the interest of themselves and their families' condition.

Agitation is demanded for an extended suffrage in this commonwealth, relieved of all its restrictions. The suffrage which is not dependent on the payment of money; a free vote and an honest count.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

James G. Blaine Indorsed by the Goodly Patriots of Massachusetts.

BOSTON, September 3.—The republican state convention was called to order at eleven o'clock this morning, by Chairman Lodge, who made no address. A motion that the chairman and the secretary of the state committee be invited to act as temporary officers of the convention was adopted, and various committees were then appointed. The committee on permanent organization reported for president, Robert M. Morse, Jr.; for secretary, J.J. Whipple, and Robert A. Southworth. President Morse then addressed the convention. A hearty outburst of enthusiasm occurred when the chairman referred to Blaine as the candidate of the republican party, as representing the best form of governmental administration. A delegate called for three cheers for Blaine and Logan. The delegates responded with heartiness.

The secretary read a telegram from Vermont, as follows:

"Our majority will not be less than 23,000, notwithstanding that a split ticket was run in the interest of Reddington."

ROBINSON RENOMINATED.

The chairman of the republican state committee, Mr. Lodge, then moved the nomination of Geo. D. Robinson for governor by acclamation. The motion was carried with an outburst of enthusiasm, there not being a single dissenting vote. The report of the committee on resolutions was presented, and the resolutions were adopted without debate.

After the reading and adoption of the resolutions, the governor appeared, escorted by the committee. He was introduced by the president.

Referring to the national candidates he said if the contests of this country are to be safe, you must elect J. G. Blaine, of Maine, and John A. Logan, of Illinois.

The national committee, of Lowell, moved the nomination of the old ticket, and that it be nominated by acclamation.

The ticket is as follows:

Governor—George D. Robinson.
Lieutenant Governor—Oliver Ames.
Secretary of State—Henry L. Pierce.
Treasurer—Daniel H. Gleason.
Auditor—Charles R. Ladd.
Attorney General—Hon. George T. Howard.

THE PLATFORM.

The platform opens with the usual affirmation of allegiance, and then proceds as follows:

We recognize that the progress of the world in population, inter communication, science, discovery and development, tends to present new and to modify old problems in the science of government, and demands men of advanced thought, and parties of progressive tendencies to meet and deal with them.

We believe that no association of men, proved by its history to have been once disloyal and ever since held together by the discipline of organization for the gratification of ambition, and the hope of spoils, artfully adjusting its professions of principles, like sails, to catch the prevailing winds of the day; captained now by a recognized chief and now by some restless deserter from the opposition, even though it makes some conspicuous proselytes from among the confiding, can never become a party of progress and reform; and we affirm that to deserve such a name the party must contain as its controlling element, that great and representative portion of the people which intelligently acts for itself stands for the popular conscience and brain and heart and is the real stay and bulwark of all popular govenments. The slave, translated to freedom, the quality of all men, regardless of race or former servitude, incorporated within the constitutional law; the disintegrating doctrines of federation conquered by an established national equality; depreciated public finances succeeded by unchallenged national credit: dangerous violence against an honest ballot condemned at the bar of public opinion; an increasing civil service, already measurably guarded from the demoralization of political slavery, together with a vast advance in internal development, popular enlightenment and national wealth and dignity, all attest that during this stewardship of a quarter of a century, the national republican party has kept abreast with the demands of progress and the needs of the country; and we affirm that it, and it alone, of the existing parties stands ready and equipped to wisely and considerately deal with the questions of the day, both state and national.

We favor a discriminating tariff, framed with regard to the careful protection of the tax payer of American industries and the American laborer, to whom it should give his full share of the national prosperity; a tariff in which reforms and corrections should be made, with a view to reduce the surplus, and at the same time correct the inequalities, and not by an illogical makeshift of horizontal reduction, as a step towards a disastrous experiment of free trade. The republican party has long been, and is now, the organization which has the tenderest regard for those who depend on each day's labor for their daily bread, the protection of whose interests has of late become more and more prominent among public questions, and it stands pledged to further their best interests by every legitimate means which the government may employ. We the attention of those who in the past have voted with the party which sustained human slavery, or who have been led to support men that, by deceitful promises, have persuaded them to visionary schemes, to the fact that the measures which have been incorporated into the laws of the nation and the states for thirty years in their behalf—such as the regulation of the hours of labor, the wages of labor, the limit of corporate power, the enlargement of free education, exemptions from ever pressing creditors and the giving of a homestead to actual settlers, have been conceived and enacted under republican administration, and notably in states which, like our own, have been long under republican rule.

We favor a continued and honest furtherance and reform in the civil service already begun, so that the executive appointment of officers, not involving the political policy of the administration, should be based on the fitness of the appointees; should assure the faithful servants of his place though administrations change, and should free the incumbents from forced political assessments and service.

We favor a foreign policy, which shall insist upon respect for the American name, and a scrupulous regard for the rights of American citizens, whether native or naturalized, everywhere, and which shall foster the growth of our commerce with, and which shall preserve from interference the rightful pre-eminence of our nation among the peoples of the Christian world.

We insist that it is the province and duty of the general government to exercise its power to ensure a free ballot and an honest counting thereof, without which self-government becomes a mockery to all whom the constitution has declared equals under the law throughout the land.

We favor liberal legislation to re-establish and assure the prosperity of the merchant marine of the country, and to restore the navy so that it may be an establishment commensurate with the nation's dignity.

We indorse the recommendations of the president and the secretary of the treasury, advising against a further coinage of the silver dollar.

We further accept the declarations of the national convention at Chicago as wisely enunciating the principles and policy of the party, and we commend James G. Blaine and John A. Logan as worthy the support of Massachusetts, as statesmen of experience, fidelity, ability patriotism and earnest devotion to the principles we believe to be right, and as men into whose hands the honor and welfare of this nation will be safely entrusted.

We congratulate the nation that after the tragic death of President Garfield, it found President Arthur one who, under the most trying circumstances, disarmed hostile criticism, devoted himself to the conscientious and successful discharge of the duties of the great office, and has given the country a safe, honest and able administration.

Massachusetts has always maintained a conspicuous leadership in devotion to free conscience, temperance, education, good order and an economical government, the relief of the unfortunate and distressed, the recognition of services of the patriot soldier and the improvement of the condition of the laboring man, and the republican party, now as in the past, pledges itself that under its administration there shall be no backward step in this regard, and no spot shall stain the luster of her record.

The platform concludes by commending to-day's nominees to the suffrages of the people.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANISM.

They "Point With Pride" in the Usual Way—General Logan.

MADISON, Wis., September 3.—The presence of General Logan in Madison, the popular demonstration in his honor, combined with the republican state convention, has crowded the city with politicians and sightseers. The prohibitionists are here in force urging their claims upon the republican party, and preparing for their state convention, which occurs to-morrow.

The republican state convention was called to order at 12:15 p. m., by Chairman Taylor, of the state central committee, who urged that the business be conducted with dispatch, owing to mass meeting to be addressed by General Logan. At three o'clock permanent organization was effected by the nomination of Ogden H. Felters as president. During the absence of the committee on resolutions Judge Humphreys moved that the present state officers be renominated by acclamation. The motion prevailed without debate. The chair appointed a committee to await on the state officers, and request their presence before the convention. At 10 o'clock the committee on resolutions reported the following platform, which was adopted without discussion:

THE PLATFORM.

The republicans of Wisconsin believing that the best interests of the whole people require the supremacy of the republican principles in the state and national affairs do reaffirm in the declarations of those principles as embraced in the platform of the national republican convention recently held at Chicago. We recognize in Hon. James G. Blaine, and in Hon. John A. Logan, the republican nominees for president and vice-president, the commanding qualities of character and statesmanship which have brought about the establishment of those principles, and which give the best assurance of their continued success.

The honest, careful and efficient administration of state affairs by the present official command them to the admiration and confidence of this commonwealth.

THE TEXAS REPUBLICANS.

The State Convention Quarreling Over What They Should do.

HOUSTON, Texas, August 3.—The republican state convention assembled here yesterday. After effecting a temporary organization and appointing a committee on credentials, the convention adjourned until 3 o'clock. On reassembling a contest and long debate followed over the make up of the committee on resolutions and permanent organization. A number of speeches were made by the colored delegates, generally favoring the indorsement of Wash Jones, independent candidate for governor. A strong delegation from Dallas, Grayson and other counties oppose the indorsement of Jones, and demand that a straight republican ticket be put in the field. After many speeches on this issue, and indorsing the national republican ticket, the convention agreed on the remaining committees and adjourned until to-day.

The republican state convention reassembled this morning, and a temporary organization was made. Permanent chairman A. J. Rosenthal briefly addressed the convention. Resolutions from the Mitchell county convention were read favoring a fusion with the greenbackers and independents and indorsing George Washington Jones, independent candidate for governor. A motion to table these resolutions resulted in a test vote 148 yeas to 279 nays.

The committee on resolutions then reported. The majority report declares it inexpedient and impracticable at this day, to place a state ticket in the field, and recommends the republicans to aid all independent candidates for state offices. The minority report declares in favor of a straight republican ticket, and also a Blaine and Logan electoral ticket. On motion to substitute the minority report, an angry debate followed. No vote was reached, and the convention took a recess. On reassembling, loud and prolonged calls were made for a vote. Many colored delegates demanded to be heard again on the question. The motion was put and carried, limiting each speaker to ten minutes. About twenty delegates addressed the convention, many being interupted by loud clamors for the previous question.

The majority report was then adopted by a viva vace vote. The result embraced in this report represent the entire labors of the convention.

The report says that it is injudicious and unprecedented at this late day to place a state ticket in the field and recommend that the republicans aid all independent candidates for state offices, favorable to the defeat of the democracy.

After the adoption of the resolutions a delegate from Dallas county demanded the call of the roll by counties, declaring that the Dallas county delegation would not abide by the action of the convention, but would withdraw. Great confusion followed, during which the chairman recognized the delegate who moved an adjournment. After considerable difficulty the motion was put and at 4:40 o'clock the convention adjourned sine die.

THE DISEASE SPREADING

THE FRENCH TROOPS IN GREAT DANGER FROM THE PLAGUE.

Report of Consul Mason as to the Condition of Affairs in the Infected Districts—The Plague Devastating Spain and Italy—The Latest From the Afflicted Points—Etc.

WASHINGTON, September 3.—The department of state has received from the United States consul at Naples a telegram saying that 173 cases of cholera exist in Naples, and 76 deaths within 24 hours. United States Consul Mason, at Marseilles, has forwarded to the department of state a report, dated the 19th ult., on the cholera at that place: Since the disease broke out, the report says, 1,512 persons have died. Without the return of the fugatives in the early part of August, Mr. Mason thinks the malady might have been stamped out by the middle of September. How long it may be prolonged by the returning unfortunates, he continues, events only can determine. Mason says that the cholera has spread throughout a district within a radius of 100 to 150 miles from Marseilles. "In many cases," he continues, "the contagion is preserved and spread by the most willful and criminal stupidity, which prompts the peasants to preserve the bedding and clothes of their dead relatives. These, with the other large contingents whom no danger or warning can prevent from excessive indulgence in melons, stale fruits and cold drinks, have been in this, as in past epidemics, mainly instrumental in keeping alive and transmitting the pestilence. Referring to vessels from Marseilles, Mason says every vessel from the port of Marseilles is liable, if not likely to be infected, despite every precaution of her officers, and although the most careful inspection may fail to discover any flaw in her sanitary record at present condition.

The official bulletin, showing the ravages of cholera in the various provinces of Italy during the past twenty-four hours, is as follows: Naples, 127 fresh cases, 65 deaths; Alexandria, 1 fresh case, 1 death; Bergoma, 22 fresh cases, 8 death; Campobasso, 5 fresh cases 5 deaths; Casarta, 1 fresh case, no deaths; Cuneo, 29 fresh cases, 17 deaths; Genoa, 21 fresh cases, 16 deaths; Modena, 3 fresh cases; no deaths; Massa Carrara, 11 fresh cases, 9 deaths; Parma, 3 fresh cases, 5 deaths; Turin, 11 fresh cases, 9 deaths.

In consequence of the appearance of cholera in Spain, King Alfonso has suspended his contemplated cruise to Bilbao, and returned to the capital. Since the outbreak of cholera in the province of Alicante, there have been 42 deaths; at Novelda, 6 cases and 2 deaths; at Elche 1, and 5 deaths at Alicante. There are now under treatment at Novelda 20 cases, and at Alicante 2.

Between sunset Monday and sunrise to-day, 120 cases of cholera have occurred at Naples. The epidemic is spreading to the adjacent districts. At La Spezia there were 39 fresh cases and 13 deaths yesterday.

The Red Cross Society.

GENEVA, September 3.—Mr. T. S. Solomons was elected vice-president of the Red Cross congress, which convened here yesterday. Miss Clara Barton was president.

The French in China.

PARIS, September 3.—The Journal Official censures the conduct of Degenne, commander of the force sent to occupy Langson, in having engaged in action with the Chinese troops at Bakle without first having communicated with Millot.

THE IOWA DEMOCRATS

Resolve to Fight For the Repeal of the Prohibitory Laws.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, September 3.—The Iowa democratic state convention met at 11 o'clock this morning, nearly all the delegations being full. The convention was called to order by Judge Kinne, chairman of the state central committee. An address of welcome to the convention was then delivered by Ernest Cloussen, mayor of Davenport. Hon. Fred Loghman, of Desmoines, was chosen temporary chairman.

The committee on resolutions presented the following plotform, which was unanimously adopted without discussion:

Resolved, That the democratic party of Iowa, in convention assembled, fully indorses the principles laid down in the national democratic platform, this year, adopted at Chicago, and cordially approves of the sentiment contained in Governor Cleveland's letter of acceptance, and in the language of said letter we express our conviction that "laws unnecessarily interfering with the habits and customs of any class of our people, which are not opposed to the moral sentiment of the civilized world, and which are consistent with good citizenship and public welfare, are unwise and vexations" and therefore we pledge ourselves to use all honorable and legal means to secure a speedy repeal of all laws in conflict therewith.

James Dooley, of Keokuk county, was nominated for secretary of state; George Derr, of Union county, for state treasurer; J. E. Henrigues, of Marshalltown, for state auditor; M. V. Gannon, of Scott, for attorney-general.

REPUBLICAN KUKLUXING.

A Negre Village Assaulted After Casting Democratic Votes.

LEXINGTON, Ky., September 3.—Maddoxtown, a few miles from here, is a village inhabited almost entirely by colored people. Three colored residents of the town came here and swore out a warrant for the arrest of a Marcus McClain, a white man, charging him with being one of a gang of eight or ten men who made a raid on Maddoxtown and mortally wounded Henry Nichols. These men say, at 10 o'clock a few nights ago, the gang, who are unknown to them, attacked their village, fired ten or fifteen shots into some of the houses and then retreated to a cornfield near by. An hour later they again fired about the same number of shots, retreating again to the cornfield. They kept up these charges at intervals of about an hour until four o'clock in the morning, when they left for good, after firing more than a hundred shots into the various houses.

In the charge they made at 2 o'clock one of the gang shot Henry Nichols, who was standing in his own yard. The ball passed through Nichols's bowels, inflicting a mortal wound. After four o'clock in the morning, when the gang left, Cunningham, Green and Carr, the men who came to swear out the warrant, saw three white men leave the cornfield, one of whom they recognized as Marcus McClain, but the other two they did not know. They know no reason why Maddoxtown should be treated in such a manner, unless the cause be a political one. They state further that several such attacks have been made upon Maddoxtown since the late election, when a number of the colored men living there voted the democratic ticket.

Dashed to Death Against an Iceberg.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., September 3.—An inspection of the abandoned brig Resolver, picked up yesterday by a British naval vessel, demonstrates that a collision with an iceberg occurred, followed by a sudden panic among the crew and passengers, who immediately launched boats and left the brig, leaving everything behind; that the boats were dashed by the boiling sea against the iceberg, and swamped, and that all hands perished. One hundred and forty-five icebergs lie between the scene of disaster in Trinity bay and Wadhams island.

THE SLANDERED NAVIGATORS.

Sergeants Brainerd and Long Deny the Stories Told About Them.

CLEVELAND, O., September 3.—Sergeants Brainerd and Long, and Private Connell, of the Greely arctic expedition, are here under an engagement at Dew's museum. They were shown this morning the telegrams from Washington, stating that an army officer, who had seen the diaries of the expedition, says the survivors when found were in two parties, one headed by Brainerd and the other by Long, living separately as two tribes and refusing to speak to one another; that Greely was an invalid the last few months, and the party, headed by Brainerd, cared for him like a child; that the stealing of rations was a common practice; that hunters sent out for birds concealed them for themselves. All of these statements Brainerd, Long and Connell deny emphatically. All insist that the party were not divided, but say that while five slept in a wall tent, Brainerd and Long slept together under the fly of the tent because the interior was not large enough for all. Sergeant Brainerd says Lieutenant Greely walked out every day, and was able and competent to command the party, which he did throughout. All agree that nobody except Henry was shot. The special correspondent's report of the same army officer says that Brainerd, when found, was much stronger than the rest; that when he came aboard great surprise was expressed at it; that when asked why such was the case, he said: "Oh, I could eat the stuff and digest it, but the others couldn't;" that when someone of the rescuing party remarked upon the absence of Dr. Pavy's body, and expressed wonder as to what became of it, Brainerd said: "He is all gone. I finished the last of him just before you arrived." This report being shown to Brainerd, he said: "I don't know who the army officer is, but whoever he may be, he is a slanderer. I was not the strongest of the party, and moreover I was not on the Bear, but come home on the Thetis. The story is a lie out of the whole cloth." Sergeant Long and Private Connell corroborated this denial.

The Vote in Vermont.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., September 3.—Thirty additional towns heard from to-day give Pingree, republican, for governor, 5,251; Reddington, democrat, 2,603; Soule, greenbacker, 159; scattering, 17. Pingree's majority over all, 2,472. This, added to the vote of the towns reported last night, gives in 144 towns heard from: Pingree, 29,913; Reddington, 14,593; Soule, 413; independent and scattering, 282; giving Pingree a majority over all of 14,645. The same towns gave Farnham, republican, in 1880, 33,203; Phelps, democrat, 15,445; greenback, 455, giving Farnham a majority of 17,305. This shows a falling off in the republican vote of 5,660, and a democrat loss of 852. The congressional vote of these towns in the first district is: For Stewart, republican, 9,674; Simmons, democratic, 3,353; Kidder, greenback, 247, giving Stewart a majority of 6,074. In the second district Grant, republican, received 14,542; Goddard, democrat, 6,111; scattering, 116; Grant's majority, 8,315. The house of representatives stands: Republican 122, democratic 17, independent 2, greenback 3. Hiram Atkins, chairman of the democratic state committee, says the republican majority is 20,000. The republican reperesentatives are greater in number than in 1880.

Thrown Under a Train.

TROY, September 3.—Andrew Jackson, a well to do resident of Hammond's station, four miles from Mechanicsville, Saratoga county, was found on the railroad track early this morning with a deep cut on his head and both legs cut off. He lived an hour after he was found, and before dying said that William Bolan and John Duffy, neighbors, had thrown him under the train. Bolan's father recently beat Jackson in a law suit.

Starving Indians Ready for War.

HELENA, Mont., September 3.—Mail advices report a threatened outbreak of Indians at the Poplar River agency in northwestern Montana. Six thousand Indians stationed there have been for the past year receiving only half rations. They managed to exist by eating their dogs and killing the cattle on the ranges. The stock men, for the protection of their herds, withdrew as far as possible from the agency. This left the Indians with only the rations issued by the government. They are hungry and discontented and threaten, unless better fed, to go on the warpath.

The Irish Land League.

DUBLIN, September 3.—A meeting of the national league was held here to-day, at which Timothy Healey, member of parliament for Monaghan presided. A resolution was adopted denouncing the Irish executive for refusing to hold fresh inquiry into the Maamstraha murder case, in view of informer Casey's recent confession, and pronouncing this refusal a breach of the public faith. The previous inquiry, the resolution asserts, was a mere farce.

Something to Paint the Town Red With.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., September 3.—[Special.]—A new mineral paint has been discovered by the Chattanooga paint and color company, near Wildwood, Georgia, on the Alabama and Great Southern railroad. The color is nearly as light as red paint. It is considered quite a valuable discovery, and the mines will be worked at once. The paint can be extensively used in coloring agricultural implements.

Guiteau's Clerical Friend.

WASHINGTON, September 3.—Dr. W. W. Hicks, who became known throughout the country as the spiritual adviser of Guiteau, and the person to whom the assassin willed his body, has resigned from the ministry and goes to Florida, where, it is said, he has several large orange groves. He was pastor of the Church of the Tabernacle, in South Washington, and ministered to the spiritual wants of a large congregation.

An Affected Lung.

PEORIA, Ill., September 3.—State Veterinarian Paarer yesterday investigated the alleged pleuro pneumonia case in the herd of Jersey cattle here belonging to D. H. T. Tripp. Two animals, each valued at $300, were found badly affected, and were slaughtered immediately. The right lung of one weighed 17 pounds more than it normally should.

Burning a Town.

HELENA, Mont., September 3.—Another attempt to burn Missoula was made last night. A pile of oil-soaked kindling was ignited in a stable near the burned district at 12:30, but was extinguished without damage. A strong force of extra police is patroling the town.

Attempted Train Wrecking.

LYNCHBURG, Va., September 3.—Another attempt was made this morning to wreck the passenger train of the Virginia Midland road, near here, by placing obstructions on the track, but they were discovered in time to check the train.

NEW YORK, September 3.—It is reported that warrants were issued to-day for the arrest of 18 aldermen who passed the ordinance over the mayor's veto in favor of the Broadway surface railway, on charges of bribery and corruption.

The Murderer Escaped.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., September 3.—[Special.]—At Kenzy, near Jellico, Tenn., John Hunt beat James Cla[illegible] murderer escaped.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

THE PRESENTATION OF THE RESOLUTIONS AT GREYSTONE.

The Democracy Does Honor to Its Old Chief, Who Retires From Politics With the Thanks of His People—The Presentation Address and the Reply of Mr. Tilden.

NEW YORK, September 3—The members of the committee appointed by the national democrat convention, to present the resolutions to Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, met the secretary of Mr. Tilden to-day, and subsequently took passage on Tilden's steam yacht, Viking, for Greystone. The committee comprises R. H. Henry, of Mississippi, chairman; A. W. Sulloway, New Hampshire; A. O. Bacon, Georgia; General Durbin Ward, Ohio; B. B. Smalley, Vermont; F. O. Prince, Massachusetts; Lester B. Faulkner, Kentucky; Governor Leon Abbett, New Jersey; ex-Governor Brown, Missouri; B. F. Jones, Louisiana, and General Rosecrans, California.

Chairman Henry and Governor Abbett, of New Jersey, were selected to present the resolutions. On arriving at Yonkers the party were driven to Greystone. They were received in the parlor by Mr. Tilden, who welcomed them. Tilden has been indisposed lately and his physician advised against any formal reception at this time. Chairman Henry made the following address:

Mr. Tilden: We are before you, representatives of the national democratic convention, to deliver into your hands a testimonial of esteem and admiration, in which you are held by the party you so gallantly led to victory in 1876. In all ages of the world grateful people have, in some form, signified their appreciation of distinguished public service. This has been done, not only as a matter of gratitude, but that others called to trying places of public trust may be nerved to the discharge of duty by the example. The great party that laid the foundation for free government on this continent; the party you have loved and served so well, but follows a line of precedents as old as the ovation to David on his return from the slaughter of the Philistians when, in these resolutions it recognizes your exalted talents, courage and fidelity to principles. Had not you, sir, emphatically forbidden it, it would have gone farther and elected you a second time to the highest office within the power of the American people to give. The national democratic convention accepted your declination and withdrawal from public life with reluctance, and know the influence of your example as a public officer would not be lost. That example was and will ever continue to largely influence political parties in this country for generations. They have learned from it that with a chief executive officer of sagacity, firmness and integrity, it is possible to secure what the people of the United States have practically lost—an honest and cheap administration of public affairs, but it will be no affront to you, sir, when we add that coupled with this purpose to do you honor, is another and one no less fixed, the determination of the the democratic party to emphasize now and in coming years, all along its march and line of battle, the deliberate assault of the republican party on constitutional liberty in the nullification of your election. It is undoubtedly the duty of all men to forgive individual wrongs, and to cover mere personal grievances with the mantle of charity and oblivion, but we know of no precept, sacred or profane, which requires a people to forget or forgive an organization that deliberately assaults the citadel of liberty, in tramping under foot the only peaceful method known to their constitution and laws through which a change of rulers and public policy can be effected. It will not be out of place to recall at this time the fact that zealous partisans counseled the exercise of force for the assertion of your title, but it was fortunate for the people that the voice of your reason and the love of your country was then, as ever, stronger than the clamer of passion, of the blandishments of power. You, sir, and the men with whom you counseled, had the magnanimity and patriotism to await the sober second thought of the country to right the wrong, and through the peaceful medium of the ballot resent the outrage. Standing, as we believe, on the verge of that auspicious event, we venture to congratulate you upon the wisdom of your course. It only remains for us to tender you with the complimentary resolutions of the great convention, and individual respect and affection, and to assure you that we speak no merely formal words when we express the wish that your valuable life may long be spared, and that its waning may be spent in tranquillity and quiet.

Mr. Tilden, though indisposed, nevertheless responded briefly, thanking the committee, through them the convention they represented, for the honor they had conferred upon him, and asked the gentlemen to return to their associates his kind appreciations of the honor and regard they had shown him. Then the resolutions adopted at Chicago, which were handsomely engrossed, were read. After a pleasant conversation with Mr. Tilden, the committee and the guests took their leave, and returned to this city. Mr. Tilden's indisposition is not regarded as serious, though it has confined him to his house for some time.

CONKLING SULKING.

He Will Not Support Blaine—The Next Senator From New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., September 3.—The Hon. Roscoe Conkling has been here on his way to Utica. Politicians are commenting on his visit though it is generally believed to be of no political significance.

Some of his old friends who are now supporting Blaine have been sounded by anxious half breed leaders to see if Mr. Conkling would make three or four speeches for Blaine in return for the influence of the latter toward securing Mr. Codkling's election as senator. Mr. Conkling has been delicately approached on the subject, and his answers have been such as to leave no doubt in the minds of his friends that official station has no further allurements for him. He desires nothing for himself, or Mr. Blaine either for that matter.

There is no longer any doubt that very many of the old stalwart faction intend to let Mr. Blaine's friends elect their man if they can. They are keeping very quiet, and do not talk of bolting, but they will be missing from the polls on election day in large numbers.

It is not by any means sure, however, that the republicans will elect the next United States senator. The prohibitionists will have a great deal to say about that. Mr. St. John advises his followers to make no fusion with the republicans on assembly nominations. The republicans got the votes of prohibitionists last year by pledging themselves to submit a prohibition amendment to popular vote, and then broke faith with their allies. Mr. St. John urges the prohibitionists never to send another petition to Albany, and to strike with their ballots the men who have wronged them. There are about twenty assembly districts in which the prohibitionists hold the balance of power, and they are likely to exercise that power to the fullest extent this fall. Should they carry out their present purpose it is altogether probable that the next assembly will be democratic by a majority large enough to overcome the republican majority of six in the senate on joint ballot, and give the democrats a United States senator.

Reassured by Mr. Conkling's positive declination to be a candidate for the United States senate, the half breeds may try to put Chauncey M. Depew in the ancient Lapham's place. Wood-pulp Miller's little side show for Whitelaw Reid will not amount to much. Miller lost his grip last winter when he made the republican legislature ridiculous by putting Titus Sheard in the speaker's chair. Mr. Alonzo B. Cornell has also lost his grip on the party and its machinery. The programme of Robertson, Sessions & Co., is to arrange the next assembly for Depew by putting James W. Husted in the speaker's chair.

Cotton Classification.

NEW YORK, September 3.—The committee representing the several cotton exchanges of the country concluded its labors to-day, having decided upon the grading of the cotton crop for 1884-85. The order of the grading is as follows: Fair middling, good middling, low middling, good ordinary, strict ordinary, and ordinary. The committee followed the rules of last year.

THE DEAD BISHOP.

GEORGE F. PIERCE PASSES INTO HIS FINAL REST.

The Close of a Remarkable and Illustrious Life—His Family History—The Early Days of the Great Itinerant—His Course in Later Life—The Deathbed Scene—Etc.

SPARTA, Ga., September 3.—[Special.—Bishop George F. Pierce is dead!

What sorrow this announcement will bring to thousands of hearts is not within human power to tell. Ever since that day in 1834, when in the prime of manhood, his gifts were consecrated to God, his has been a life of labor. In the days when there were not even roadways in Georgia, on his little poney, Cherokee Prince, the son of Lovic Pierce followed the wilderness paths in search of his appointments. He preached with earnestness; he grew to be a part of the tradition of every Methodist household. The years brought him honors, but no relief from work, for his was a labor which could only be laid down with his life. From ocean to ocean, his voice, like that of the Great Baptist, has been heard calling men to salva-tion. But life's task is now over, and the good bishop sleeps, while his bride of half a century weeps by his side, and clasping her hands her silent prayer is for that reunion which only another world can bring.

When the news went abroad that George F. Pierce lay stretched on the bed of death a thrill of pain came over his friends. Telegrams poured in from General Toombs; from Dr. Fitzgerald, the friend of his Californian itineracy; from Dr. McFerran; from his brother bishops, all hoping for his restoration to life. The bishop had faith in his power to live. Dr. Alfriend, whose practiced eye saw that death was the only relief, found it necessary to tell the bishop that the time had come. The sick man, turning wearily in his bed, smiled and asked:

"How long will I have to wait?"

"Only a few hours."

All heads were bowed. The touch of God's finger made every tongue silent. Thus the hours passed. Friends came in and received the good man's blessing. Daylight brought with it delusive hope, that even yet he might live. At eight o'clock it was observed that he was growing worse. Silently his wife took her place at the dying man's side, holding his hand in her's. Children, grandchildren, great grandchildren, friends, neighbors, grouped about the bed. Breathing grew harder; eyes were suffused with tears. At fifteen minutes to nine a voice whispered:

"He is dead!"

And thus the story of a life was told—a life that shall long serve as a sweet memory and an example for those who knew him.

The funeral will take place here at eleven o'clock on Friday.

It is but a few months since the preparations for his golden wedding brought to Bishop Pierce and his bride of fifty years the congratulations of friends in all parts of the union. Through an interview with a representative of THE CONSTITUTION the bishop permitted the world to get an inside view of his home, and to share in the joy which crowned an active life of over half a century. On that occasion Bishop Pierce, in an informal way, gave the story of his family, substantially as follows:

THE FAMILY TREE.

"There were three branches of our family," he said, in answer to a question. "Two brothers went north, and were lost sight of, while the third found his home in Halifax county, North Carolina, where my father was born in 1784. The family is of English and Genevan origin, the Pierce's being English and the Flournoys from Geneva. Many members of the latter family are now to be found in Virginia. When Franklin Pierce was president I called upon him, and we found great similarity in manny of our family traditions, but no positive proof of relationship. However, I said jocularly to the president:

'Since you have reached the presidency, we will agree to call you Cousin Frank.'

"After my father was born, but while yet an infant, my grandfather removed to South Carolina, where he became deeply identified with the state, and later still he became a citizen of Greene county, where my father grew up and married Miss Annie M. Foster, daughter of Colonel George W. Foster, in 1809. At this time he was presiding elder of the Oconee district, extending from Jackson county in the north, to St. Mary's in the south, as far west as the frontiersmen dared to go. I was born in 1811, at the home of my grandfather, three miles from Greensboro, in one of those hewn log houses such as were fashionable in those early days. The family lived in Greensboro until 1825, and afterward at Columbus. I went to school in Greenesboro, first to Mrs. Scott, and afterwards to her husband, Mr. Archibald Scott, one of the most famous teachers of his day. One peculiarity of his teaching was this: the pupil was at perfect liberty to do what he pleased, but he had to have his lesson. When the lesson was not perfect, Mr. Scott had a good supply of hickory and the muscle to wield it. As a result the lessons were generally perfect." "At the age of fifteen I was sent to Athens university, and graduated in 1829. Among those who were my companions were Robert Toombs, Alexander H. Stephens, Howell Cobb, and several others whose names have since become impressed upon the history of the state. None of my own class, however, became specially distinguished, though many of them took respectable places in the world. During my college days my father was pastor of the church in Athens. Under his teaching a powerful revival of religion took place, through which I professed religion. I graduated at my eighteenth year.

ON THE CIRCUIT.

"Returning home, following the natural bent of my inclinations, and under the advice of my uncle, Colonel Foster, I began the study of the law. A year later my convictions led me to seek service in the church. The district conference, up to that time, consisted of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. In 1831, however, the Georgia conference was organized, and I became one of its first members. I was appointed to the Alcova circuit composed of the counties of Putnam, Jasper, Newton and Morgan, with Rev. Jeremiah Freeman as my senior in charge of the circuit. Within the first quarter he broke down under the excessive labor, and I was left alone to fill twenty-two appointments over a territory so vast that my home seemed to be continually in the saddle. I preached twenty-four sermons every twenty-eight days, besides sermons on extra occasions, such as weddings, funerals and household services. During that year I received into the church 150 members. The second year, youth though I was, I was sent to Augusta as the junior to James O. Andrew, whose name afterward became so prominent. In May of that year Mr. Andrew was elected bishop, and for the second time I found myself in sole charge of a very responsible trust.

A SPICE OF ROMANCE.

"The third year found me appointed to Savannah and here," said the bishop, speaking with the air of a man whose imagination recalls a pleasant picture, "I met Miss Anne M. Waldron. She was an orphan, living with her married sister, the wife of Mr. Benjamin Snider, at that time one of the leading business men of Savannah. Our meetings resulted in the old story told so often. We were married on the 4th of February, 1834, at the residence of Mr. Snider. A large company was present, nearly all of whom are now dead. In the years which have passed they have dropped off one by one, till now but few remain, and they are waiting for the great summons. Rev. Richard L. Winn, the clergyman who performed the ceremony, still lives, a citizen of Texas. I was reappointed to Savannah the year following, with the intimation that I would shortly be transferred to Charleston, S. C., for Dr. Capers, who was to locate in Georgia. At the close of a year I returned to Georgia, and was reappointed to Augusta. During all these years the church had made great progress. I was then appointed presiding elder of the Augusta district, during which time great revivals were held.

"In 1839 I was appointed president of the first female college in the world, located at Macon. Owing to financial embarrassment I subsequently resigned and accepted the agency to collect funds for the institution. In 1842 I was stationed in Macon, whence I was reappointed in Augusta for the years 1843 and 1844, during which time I built St. Johns church. I was then appointed for three years presiding elder of the Augusta circuit, and then, 1848, I was transferred to Columbus. That summer Judge Longstreet resigned the presidency of Emory college, and I was appointed to fill the vacant chair, which I held until 1854. During all these years I never meddled with affairs of the world, never became entangled with outside questions, and never allowed college or other duties to interfere with the regularity of my preaching. There is only one safety for a preacher—unremitting work and never ceasing preaching.

RAISED TO THE EPISCOPACY.

"In 1854 the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, met in Columbus. By that body I was elected to be one of the general superintendents of the church. My duties have occupied all my time, and called me from sea to sea. I have been absent from home months at a time, spending weeks on the cars, and undergoing many hardships of travel."

VIEWS ON CURRENT TOPICS.

The bishop had decided views on every topic of importance, which he never [illegible] to express. He did not believe in cho[illegible] intro-duced an element of bickering into the church; the singers being filled with envy and jealousy, scandalizing each other instead of worshipping God. The Methodism of the present day he looked upon as lacking in the personal earnestness of an earlier period—there being a disposition now to regard the edicts of society which were not always in accord with the Christian code. He did not fully approve of the agitation for perfect holiness. So anxious was he to be correctly quoted upon this topic that with his own hand he wrote the following lines when waited upon by THE CONSTITUTION'S representative last February:

"The subject of sanctification, or Christian perfection, or holiness, has been the matter of controversy in the church, prominently at different times from Wesley's day down to the present. The great difficulty has been, not an actual disagreement upon the subject itself, as in the attempt to define what is undefinable. To convey an idea in precise terms what is a matter of fact and of feeling rather than of doctrine, is always sure to confuse the common mind, and to provoke controversy. The scriptures unquestionably teach that holiness of heart and life is an essential to salvation. But to express exactly what it is, how it is to be obtained, would be to any man a very difficult undertaking. There are general views of the subject in which all, I think, may harmonize. I rejoice in the recent revival of this subject, and while I do not agree with the views or methods of its modern advocates in all respects, I think the agitation has done and is doing good. It has led to inquiry, discussion, self examination, and stimulated a great many to seek a higher life and a deeper religious experience. Good has been accomplished and more general good will follow, if its peculiar advocates are prudent and judicious in their teaching, and are faithful to their own professions. I think that if less was said in the way of personal claims and professions, and the doctrine left to vindicate itself by the lives of those who are the subjects of this work of grace, it would be better for all concerned. A preacher may present the truth and enforce it and commend it, deriving his arguments from his own experience, as illustrative of scripture preaching, without claiming himself to be an example of it. I believe in holiness, and have struggled through life to illustrate it in spirit and in conversation, but have never felt called by the spirit to avow those high attainments which some of my brethren report concerning themselves. I do not discredit their testimony nor deny the facts of their experience, but think it more modest and humble, saying less of one's self and leaving character to the judgment of the church and the world."

THE CHURCH AND SLAVERY.

The bishop, whose service, either as delegate to the general convention or as bishop on the bench, has been in the consulting councils of the church during the entire time in which the slavery agitation split the church, and developed into the war between the states, is a prominent figure in history. In possession of such experience he declared that never once in any of the governing councils of the church was the question of slavery or politics discussed; that the gospel, pure and simple, was the only question with which they concerned themselves. Reunion with the northern church he considered undesirable. The education of the negro, beyond certain limits, was harmful to the negro himself as well as dangerous to the whites. The future he regarded as full of hope, however, as the good sense of the people would lead them out of all difficulties, provided they did not forget God.

Taken altogether George F. Pierce was a great man. Great as he made himself, he would have been equally great in whatever calling of life he undertook. He was surrounded in his late years by a happy and appreciative family, who anticipated his every want, and at the last moment eased his dying pillow with the tenderness born of love.

To Honor Bishop Pierce.

Mr. Morris Happ is a prosperous and wealthy merchant; Captain Hugh Lawson, principal of our high school, a fine educator; Dr. William Rawlings, a successful and skillful surgeon; Mr. A. M. Mayo, our jolly, popular and efficient clerk of court, and Richard T. Walker, a prosperous planter and dealer in liquor. ### South Rome's Mayor Requested to Abdicate.

From the Rome, Ga., Courier.

Late last evening our reporter got wind of the fact that when the South Rome council should meet last night there would be trouble in the wind, so when the law-makers of our little neighbor assembled our scribe was in their midst. The regular order of business was gone through with, and then there was silence in the chamber for about five minutes. Clerk Green then announced that he had a communication to read. More silence. Mr. Fort, with a view singular for "shutting out" our reporter, moved that the communication be laid over for a special meeting. But there was no second to the motion and the paper was read. The paper contained a number of charges against Mayor T. J. McCaffrey, and requested him to resign inasmuch as the signers did not think him capable to fill the office. The paper was signed by every member of the council. When it had been read Mayor McCaffrey stated that he would decline to take any action or make any reply to the charges for the present. It seems that the greatest objection to Mr. McCaffrey is that he is too lenient for an executive. His friends claim that should he resign to-night he could be re-elected to-morrow. The members of the council express high regard for Mr. McCaffrey personally, but object to him as official. The matter will be disposed of a[illegible] ing Thursday[illegible]

A DOUBLE MURDER.

The Final Result of a Bloody Appling County Tragedy.

BAXLEY, September 3.—[Special.]—Two negroes were killed at the Appling distillery, about six miles from this place, last night. The proceedings of the inquest which was held late this evening shows the following facts: Dave Lewis and Ody Lewis, brothers, and Ben Lewis, were employed to work on the turpentine farm of the above distillery, and arrived near the distillery on last Saturday evening. Ben Lewis and Dave Lewis got into a row, during which Ben shot at Dave, but missed him, the shot taking effect in and upon Dave's wife, who was standing near by. Ben immediately left, swearing that he would take Dave's life before he left the country. Yesterday evening about nine o'clock, Dave heard a noise like some one creeping near his shanty, and suspecting that Ben had returned for some violent purpose, grasped his gun and went out to reconnoiter, at the same time placing another negro, who was in his shanty, in the door to keep watch. Dave had proceeded but a short distance, however, when two reports of a gun were heard in quick succession, and he was seen to fall. Upon examination it was discovered that Dave had been shot through the head with seven buckshot, and that the gun which he had in his hands had not been discharged. This morning Ben was also found dead about seventy-five yards from the spot where Dave fell, having been shot in the breast with a gun. A double barrel shot-gun was also found in the hands of Ben, one barrel only having been discharged. This direful coincidence is explained by the fact that Ody Lewis, Ben's brother, lived about thirty steps from where the killing occurred; that he was in his shanty just before the reports were heard, and that he was not to be found this morning. The supposition is that Ben shot Dave and that Ody shot Ben. One hundred dollars reward has been offered and search instituted for the latter, but as yet he has not been captured.

GEORGIA GOSSIP.

Says the Sylvania Telephone:

We received the tails of two fawns this week, sent us by Messrs. Tom Hooten and Tom Willis, and learn that they killed three of the innocent little creatures on Monday last. We regret to know that they are slaughtering the young deer in this style, and just here would say that it shows how necessary it is to have a game law in our county. We hope our next legislature will enact a law for the protection of deer, turkeys and partridges from slaughter, except at the proper season.

The Savannah Times is reliably informed that arrangements are being perfected for the boring of an artesian well by a party of gentlemen in that city, who are convinced that pure good water can be obtained. A number of citizens in the vicinity of Laurel Grove cemetery, recently petitioned council on the subject, and it was asserted that the water from the pumps in that neighborhood was unfit for use. The gentlemen mentioned are of the opinion that good water can be obtained by going deep enough, and hence have determined to try the experiment of an artesian well at their own expense. In a few days bids will be advertised for a well. The work will be at once commenced. It is designed to bore some where in the vicinity of Burroughs and Cuyler streets. The result will be awaited with interest.

About Christmas a little two year old child of Mr. Jesse Boone, in Columbus, while playing with a wooden screw about three-fourths of an inch long, shoved it so far up her nose that it could not be removed. Her father took her to several physicians, but it seems that none of them would attempt to remove it. Recently it began to affect one of her eyes, and Monday the father took the child to Dr. Grimes, who removed the screw from its unnatural position where it had been concealed nearly nine months. The operation, though painful, was a great relief.

Dublin Gazette: The waters of the Oconee river at this season of the year are at their lowest stage, and the question naturally arises is, why are not the appropriations made by congress expended at this time? Because, we would answer, the supervision of the works, instead of being left to the superior judgment of those in charge of the clearing boats, is vested in a United States official far away, who is as ignorant of the geography of this river as a Hottentot of the abstruse reasonings of Bacon or Aristotle. He has the power of ordering work done at this point or that, and the sub-officer must obey. The last appropriation of congress for the Oconee river amounted to the mere pittance of $5,000; yet, were this expended judiciously, great good might be accomplished. The clearing boats are now working their way from the confluence of this river with the Altamaha up to this point clearing obstructions as they meet with them. By the time they reach this point, the means will be either exhausted or high water will suspend further operations, thus leaving the part of the river from this point to the railroad untouched. Over this part a regular schedule is maintained, and is the means whereby Dublin connects with the outside world. Over the lower section of the river boats seldom pass. Which more needs the work? Another thing, too small an amount of money is scattered over too much space. We need larger appropriations, and would ask our next congressman to inquire into the reason, why the Oconee should be excluded from the appropriation lists, granting large sums to other rivers. We are of the opinion that our congressman has been at fault.

THE ELBERTON KIDNAPPING.

A Wife Abducted by Her Husband and Two Negroes

From the Elberton, Ga., South.

On the night of the 25th ult., a man by the name of Tom Harris, accompanied by two negroes, came over from South Carolina and drove up to a house in the upper portion of this county where his wife, Mrs. Harris and her six little children lived, and just after supper, while Mrs. Harris was washing dishes, Harris, with one of the negroes, went to the kitchen where Mrs. Harris was—took her by force—bareheaded and barefooted, and put her in the carriage, which the other negro had in waiting, and left in great haste for South Carolina. The carriage was a double-seated one, and Harris and one of the negroes took the back seat, while the other negro did the driving, which was done at the full speed of the horses most of the way. Mrs. Harris was placed on the floor of the carriage, with her head drawn back between the knees of Harris, who kept his hands over her mouth to prevent her from making a noise, while the negro on the seat with him held Mrs. Harris's hands in order to keep her in the position desired. It is said she begged her husband most pitiously not to smother her, and to let her get her breath, but his only response was an oath and a command to keep quiet. It is said that the whole country for a half mile on each side of the road heard the rumbling noise of his flying team as he passed through, and that it would have taken a large number of men to have stopped him in his flight. He reached the Savannah river and crossed over before the people of the neighborhood knew what was going on, but left one of the negroes on this side who has been captured and lodged in jail at this place.

Harris took his wife, leaving the little children, (one of which is a suckling babe) alone in the dark. They were so badly frightened that one of the largest ones took to the woods, and had not been found up to 10 o'clock a. m., the next day, while the others commenced screaming and crying, which brought in some of the nearest neighbors. The children were taken in charge by some of the neighbors and cared for as well as could be by any one else than a mother.

The children say that Harris and the devilish negro seized their mother, bareheaded and barefooted, and carried her, crying and praying for help, to the carriage. She prayed and begged that she might be permitted to get her little nine months-old babe, but they forced her away heedless of her cries.

This, if we have been correctly informed, is one of the most brutal and cowardly affairs that has ever occurred in this section, and demands closest investigation and prompt punishment.

We are informed that Harris is a native of Hart county, and married in the upper portion of this county; that he has always treated his wife most cruelly, often whipping and beating her. He was prosecuted in Hart county last year for wife whipping, and through the intervention of some friends the court was induced to let him off with a light punishment, after which he took his family and went to South Carolina, where he soon commenced his old practice of whipping his wife, and treated her so cruelly that she took her little children some time ago and came back on this side of the river near her mother's, where she was living when taken away. Harris, it is said, went to the livery stable at Anderson on Monday morning and hired the team and carriage in which he carried his wife away, paying six dollars for the same. He is said to be a very worthless, bad character, and that on account of cruel treatment, his wife has left him several time before.

We hope the next grand jury will investigate the case thoroughly, and if an indictment is found that the villain will be brought to justice.

The fact of its containing Iodide of Potash renders it more valuable as a Blood Remedy. It sells well and gives our customers entire satisfaction. Our sales have increased 500 per cent within a few months.

MOTHERS' FRIEND!

No More Terror! No More Pain! No More Danger! To Mother or Child.

The Dread of Motherhood Transformed to HOPE AND JOY.

Safety and Ease —TO— Suffering Woman.

This invaluable preparation is truly a triumph of scientific skill, and no more inestimable benefit was ever bestowed on the mothers of the world.

It not only shortens the time of labor and lessens the intensity of pain, but, better than all, it greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition highly favorable to speedy recovery, and far less liable to flooding, convulsions, and other alarming symptoms incident to lingering and painful labor. Its truly wonderful efficacy in this respect entitles the MOTHERS' FRIEND to be ranked as one of the life-saving appliances given to the world by the discoveries of modern science.

From the nature of the case it will of course be understood that we cannot publish certificates concerning this REMEDY without wounding the delicacy of the writers. Yet we have hundreds of such testimonials on file, and no mother who has once used it will ever again be without it in her time of trouble.

A promienent physician lately remarked to the proprietor, that if it were admissible to make public the letters we receive, the "Mothers' Friend" would outsell anything on the market.

I most earnestly entreat every female expecting to be confined, to use Mothers' Relief. Coupled with this entreaty I will add that during a long obstetrical practice (forty-four years), I have never known it to fail to produce a safe and quick delivery.

A REMARKABLE CURE!

—IN WHICH—

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

—DECIDED—

TO USE THE KNIFE.

My wife and daughter suffered for years with an affection of the throat, which was gradually but surely undermining their health, and was a source of anxiety to all of us. Two of the best physicians of the city and also a surgeon were called in, and after a careful examination they decided that there was no chance for a cure unless they would consent to undergo a surgical operation. We were much opposed to the knife being used, until all other means had been exhausted. So, we began to use different throat remedies sold at drug stores. We finally got to Brewer's Lung Restorer, and the effects were truly wonderful; and after a few bottles had been taken they were entirely relieved of the trouble and their health fully restored. If any of my family should ever be similarly affected, I would, if necessary, travel around the world in order to get this remedy.

Very respectfully, W. H. MANSFIELD,
Macon, Ga.

MACON, Ga., August 15th, 1880.

With great pleasure I certify to the efficacy of that truly excellent preparation—Brewer's Lung Restorer. It has indeed proven to be a sovereign remedy in my family. For many months my wife has suffered from weak lungs, and has experienced great difficulty in breathing, so much so that she could not sleep at all at night; she also lost her appetite, and, in fact, her condition was truly alarming. The Lung Restorer having been recommended by several friends, I resolved to get it and test its virtues, which I did, and with the most happy effect. She has taken but two bottles, and the result is wonderful. She now experiences no difficulty in breathing, her appetite is good, and she is rapidly regaining her strength and I am convinced its continued use will effect a permanent cure. I would, therefore, cheerfully recommend it to all who have weak lungs, as it cannot fail to be of great benefit to all who may give it a trial.

Yours truly, GEORGE W. SIMS.

The above testimonial was given in 1880. Hear what the same gentleman says after an interval of four years:

"I have had no cause to change my opinion relative to the efficacy of Brewer's Lung Restorer in cases of diseased lungs. The benefit derived by my wife from its use has been permanent. My faith in its virtues is such that I cheerfully recommend it to all who are afflicted with pulmonary disease.

Very respectfully, GEORGE W. SIMS.

A REMARKABLE CURE!

—IN WHICH—

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

—DECIDED—

TO USE THE KNIFE.

My wife and daughter suffered for years with an affection of the throat, which was gradually but surely undermining their health, and was a source of anxiety to all of us. Two of the best physicians of the city and also a surgeon were called in, and after a careful examination they decided that there was no chance for a cure unless they would consent to undergo a surgical operation. We were much opposed to the knife being used, until all other means had been exhausted. So, we began to use different throat remedies sold at drug stores. We finally got to Brewer's Lung Restorer, and the effects were truly wonderful; and after a few bottles had been taken they were entirely relieved of the trouble and their health fully restored. If any of my family should ever be similarly affected, I would, if necessary, travel around the world in order to get this remedy.

Very respectfully, W. H. MANSFIELD, Macon, Ga.

MACON, GA., August 15th, 1880.

With great pleasure I certify to the efficacy of that truly excellent preparation—Brewer's Lung Restorer. It has indeed proven to be a sovereign remedy in my family. For many months my wife has suffered from weak lungs, and has experienced great difficulty in breathing, so much so that she could not sleep at all at night; she also lost her appetite, and, in fact, her condition was truly alarming. The Lung Restorer having been recommended by several friends, I resolved to get it and test its virtues, which I did, and with the most happy effect. She has taken but two bottles, and the result is wonderful. She now experiences no difficulty in breathing, her appetite is good, and she is rapidly regaining her strength and I am convinced its continued use will effect a permanent cure. I would, therefore, cheerfully recommend it to all who have weak lungs, as it cannot fail to be of great benefit to all who may give it a trial.

Yours truly, GEORGE W. SIMS.

The above testimonial was given in 1880. Hear what the same gentleman says after an interval of four years:

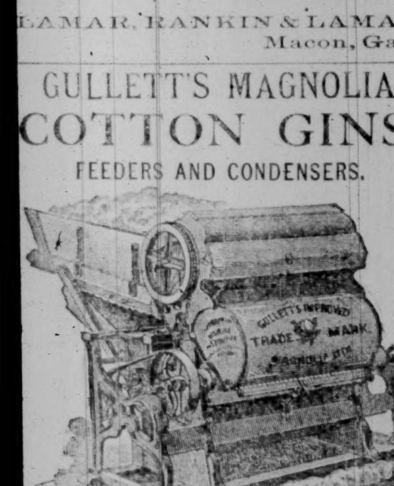

"I have had no cause to change my opinion relative to the efficacy of Brewer's Lung Restorer in cases of diseased lungs. The benefit derived by my wife from its use has been permanent. My faith in its virtues is such that I cheerfully recommend it to all who are afflicted with pulmonary disease.

Very respectfully, GEORGE W. SIMS

RAILROAD NEWS.

THE HEADLIGHTS RUNNING INTO ATLANTA.

A Change of Position—A Suit for Twenty Thousand Dollars Damages Against the Richmond and Danville—Savannah and Florida Matters—Local and General Notes.

Several machinists have recently been taken on again at the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia shops in this city.

It is rumored that Mr. Cecil Gabbett, general manager of the Western railroad of Alabama, will be made superintendent of the New Orleans and Montgomery division of the Louisville and Nashville. It is said that he will be succeeded by Mr. T. D. Kline, of the Southwestern railroad.

The executive committee of the Southern Railway and Steamship association held a meeting at Louisville yesterday. The Chattanooga Times, speaking of the withdrawal of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia from the pool, says the scene of the railroad war will be between Atlanta and Macon, and Chattanooga and Atlanta.

The Jacksonville, Fla., correspondent of the Savannah Times says: In conversing with a well known railroad official in this city, whose judgment in matters pertaining to railroads is undisputed, your correspondent was pleased to hear him express the opinion that Colonel H. S. Haine was the coming railroad man of the south. He is the Vanderbilt to-day of the south, and a Napoleon in his moves and ventures when action is required to enlarge the influence of his road. He says but little, thinks much, and acts just when it is necessary. This is the cause of his wonderful success and influence with railroad magnates and railroad corporations.

A Change of Position.

AUGUSTA, Ga., September 3.—[Special.]—James A. Davant leaves the general freight and passenger agency of the Port Royal railroad to-morrow to accept a similar position with the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas, the new railroad just completed, with headquarters in Memphis. Mr. Davant is one of the most popular gentlemen and officials in Augusta, and regret at his departure is universal.

A Suit for $20,000 Damages.

From the Charlotte, N. C., Observer.

The long standing suit for damages against the Richmond and Danville railroad by L. J. Kirk, a former railroad carpenter, was called in the superior court yesterday. Kirk was represented by Bynum & Bynum, Osborne & Maxwell and W. H. Bailey, and Messrs. Jones and Johnston appeared for the railroad. The day was consumed in the examination of the plaintiff, and in discussions among the lawyers as to law. In the afternoon the court adjourned to commence on the case again to-day. Kirk sues for $20,000. In 1879 he was employed by the railroad company as a carpenter. He was sent to the junction one day to examine a car standing on a track, and while making the examination a backing train bumped against the car, causing the wheels to run over and cut off his arm. The suit has been in court for a long time, but will probably be decided this week.

Savannah and Florida Matters.

From the Savannah News.

Mr. F. B. Papy, general freight and passenger agent of the Florida Railway and Navigation company, was in the city yesterday in the interest of the Savannah, Montgomery and Fernandina line of steamers, which will be re-established with the opening of northern travel. The Morning News announced some days ago the coalition of the De Bory-Baya steamer line with the Florida Railway and Navigation company, and that a double line of steamers would be put on between Savannah and Fernandina.

Mr. Papy said to a Morning News reporter yesterday that the line to Savannah would be opened early next month with the beginning of travel. This combination gives the De Bara-Baya line a fleet of seventeen vessels, four of which will be run between Fernandina and Savannah and the remaining thirteen on the St. John's river.

"The Florida Railway and Navigation company," added Mr. Papy, "is now operating 508 miles of road, and comprises the Florida Transit railroad company, the Florida Central and Western railroad and the Fernandina and Jacksonville railroad, with extensive water connections at Fernandina and other points. This new arrangement extends the facilities already advantageous, and will give to Savannah a fast freight and passenger line direct to Fernandina, with quick transportation to the interior and points in south Florida."

Dr. O. G. CILLEY Boston, says: "I have used it with the most remarkable success in dyspepsia, and derangement of the liver and kidneys."

SMITH & BRO., Covington, Ky.—Esteemed Sirs: I have been troubled with a serious kidney affection, and seeing your advertisement, concluded to try a bottle of your May Flower, though without much hope of being benefited by it. The first bottle worked splendidly, and persevering with its use, I am entirely relieved of my painful illness. Any one can write to me and I will reiterate what is here written.

THE CONSTITUTION,
ATLANTA, GA.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states at 1 a. m.: generally fair weather, slight changes in temperature, northeast to southeast winds.

THE unanimous renomination of Mr. Blount is a deserved tribute to one of the safest and wisest men that has served Georgia in the national congress. The state is to be congratulated on the action of the Macon district.

THERE is only one other parallel in history for the scene which took place in Mr. Tilden's Greystone mansion yesterday—General Washington' surrender of his honors back to congress. Mr. Tilden is for all time a figure in American history, while the name of Hayes will only be mentioned with loathing.

THE state conventions made a field day of yesterday. Massachusetts had two, which engaged in the work of adopting long platforms. In Texas the republicans resolved upon fusion with the ragged edge of politics. In Iowa the democrats took strong grounds against sumptuary laws; while in Wisconsin the republicans will to-day make a trade with the prohibitionists.

OUR people are promised a sensation to-day in the baseball match between our professionals and a club made up entirely of young farmers. The countrymen are powerful athletes, have played together for years, and have beaten every club they ever met, among them the Clinches that beat the Atlantas yesterday. They come backed by a large contingent of farmers, who believe that the rural invincibles will down the town boys.

LOUIS KOSSUTH, the Hungarian patriot, in a recent interview at Turin with Madam Adam, the well known editor of the Nouvelle Revue, of Paris, gave it as his opinion that "the French colonial policy was not promising." "Prince Bismarck," he said, "is sending France to China, Austria, Russia, and Egypt, in order to make the former a safety valve to Europe, which he rules. Again he asserted that "France was incapable of colonizing."

THE DEATH OF BISHOP GEO. F. PIERCE.

In the death of Bishop Pierce, which took place yesterday at 9 o'clock, the Christian world loses one of its brightest and purest lights, and the Methodist church one of its most devoted and illustrious bishops.

Gifted with marvellous eloquence, of splendid person and ability, thoughtful, industrious and comprehensive, the world had little that was bright or alluring that it did not offer to him when he began his public life. In a worldly career, Bishop Pierce would have achieved great and lasting distinction. But he wedded himself to the church, and with singular fidelity and devotion he has served her for more than half a century. As a pulpit orator, he was incomparable, and one of his sermons won from Macaulay the praise that it was the finest specimen of English he had seen from any American. As a bishop, he was the soul of dignity and of devotion. It is the fashion of the world to believe that no man lives whose place cannot be filled, and the Almighty can inspire men to take up the unfinished work of those who fall by the wayside. But it does seem, in the hour of bereavement, that the loss sustained by the Methodist church in the death of Bishop Pierce is irreparable.

We heard him once, in a superb eulogy on Dr. Allen, the Chinese missionary, say that the light of his life would live long after his death, as the light that str[illegible] from far distant stars shines for ages after the stars have been blotted out. What he then said worthily of his colleague in the church, the church can say this morning of him. Though he is dead, and has entered into the blessed kingdom of the Lord, the work he has done will live after him, and the light of his life will illumine the church long after his name shall be but a memory, and his devotion a tradition that mothers will whisper to their children as a benediction and a blessing.

A DISSATISFIED DEMOCRAT.

As might have been supposed, Editor Henry Watterson of the Courier-Journal, is beginning to squirm and flinch under fire. He sees nothing except it comes in the shape of a sensation, and he invariably deals with affairs in a sensational way. We take the following from the Macon Telegraph which includes Editor Watterson's latest views, though his opinions may have undergone a radical change before this—since he is always up in the air like a bee-martin, or scratching on the ground like a joree:

> Mr. Watterson is preparing his lines of retreat. He says: "If the democrats are not successful in November it will be because the management of the campaign is given over to the men who mismanaged it four years ago, and who, in the last days of that struggle, threw away, by trickery and cowardice, what might have been a most substantial victory." He further insists that an active free trade campaign shall be inaugurated in the west. He has no hope of victory from the east. It may be said of his campaign that it is prolific of surprises.

The only surprises of which the campaign has been prolific are those which have been occasioned by the attitude of certain professed democratic editors who, instead of helping forward a most promising and hopeful contest against republican corruption, have done the most that lay in their power to give the democratic cause a slap in the face. There is Editor Dana, who indorsed the democratic platform and then denounced it, and now here comes Editor Watterson with a lot of belated slush that could be unworthy of a sensible schoolboy.

In the first place, if the democratic national committee is composed of corruptionists, as Mr. Watterson charges, he should have addressed himself to the proper authority at the proper time. It is a little late in the day now, when everthing is primed for an active campaign, for an influential democratic editor to make an attack upon the men who have the campaign in hand. The attack should have been made where there was an opportunity to correct whatever is wrong in the make-up of a committee. A democratic editor can show that he is independent and fearless without becoming subservient to republican opinion, and without fishing for puffs in republican organs.

In the second place, if Mr. Watterson is of the opinion that a free trade campaign would win in the west, he ought to have inaugurated it a month or more ago. It is too late now to apologize for republican corruption by deserting that broad and well-defined issue and taking up free trade as the burden of the campaign. The purpose of the democratic party is to rescue the country from the results of republican corruption. The party, we are happy to say, is not run in the interest of cranks and doctrinaires, and it is well that it is not. If it is successful, as we believe it will be, it will be successful in spite of them.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Trade prospects are good. Our advices from every quarter indicate a spirited revival of business during September, and in fact the revival actually set in on the very first day of the month.

The depression of business for months past has caused merchants to purchase goods cautiously and in such quantities as would meet the limited demand. As a consequence, stocks in every section are small, and must be speedily augmented. The large yield of cereals has restored confidence, and crop prospects south are of the most encouraging character. While the cry of overproduction comes from various industries, many large manufacturing contracts are reported. There is considerable activity in steel rails, pig iron and merchant iron, and it is estimated that the current year will witness the construction of four thousand miles of railway.

The New York banks maintain the status of a month ago. The funds required in the south for the movement of crops, it may be remarked, are generally supplied by the treasury in the shape of silver certificates. The movement of crops, therefore, will probably be accomplished without calling on the New York banks for any considerable amount.

It is agreed by all well posted business veterans that the south is better off this season than any other section of the country. Economy, prudence, hard work and bountiful crops have pulled us through a phenomenal period of depression. It is a great thing to live in a country where you have only "to tickle the soil with a hoe to make it laugh with a harvest."

A QUESTION OF RIGHT.

We have received the following inquiry, which we print with pleasure:

> ATLANTA, Ga., September 2.—Editors Constitution: When the city forced property owners to pay an enormous tax for paving the streets, we understood that the city agreed to keep the streets in repair. It certainly ought to do so. But it does not. Can it not be forced to do so, in law?
> ONE WHO PAID.

It is clearly the duty of the city to keep the paved streets in repair. The drift of law is that municipal authorities have the right to levy tax for the paving and repairing of streets, if the law under which they act has specifically given them that power. But where both "paving and repairing" are not specified, it has the right to levy tax only for the one purpose specified. The Atlanta authorities have the right to levy only the tax for making the streets. It is plainly its duty to keep the streets in repair.

The equity is even stronger than the law. Here we have a forced loan made on the property owners, many of whom were unable to meet it conveniently, for the making of streets that benefit the whole city. This is work that is usually done by a general tax. The property owners paid, however, with singular unanimity, without protest. It is now a shame for the city to let the streets, so dearly purchased, go to ruin for the lack of a little work.

The common sense of the case is stronger even than the law and the equity. If the streets are carefully patched and levelled they will last for many years. If the little h[illegible] now and the d[illegible] worse than worn out in a year or two. Leaving out of consideration the rights of the property holders, the city itself would find it economy to take care of the streets, one-third of which the city built. A few men and carts can do now what it will take a small army of men and carts to do a year later. We do hope the street committee or the street commissioners will see to it that the streets we have made are not utterly neglected in the hurry to make more.

THE "PROMINENT CITIZEN."

The Chicago Current wants the so-called "prominent citizen" suppressed because he is an individual of negative virtues, and altogether more ornamental than useful.

There is something in this view; but we have still a graver objection to the "prominent citizen." It is his shameless unreliability. To put it mildly, the late Baron Munchausen and the brilliant Joseph Mulhatton never in their most mendacious moods were able to hold a candle to the ubiquitous individual now under discussion. In ransacking our exchanges and scanning our news-letters in search of cold facts and significant political pointers during the present campaign we have, without desiring or intending it, accumulated a pile of the most damning proofs against the "prominent citizen." This slippery character has been allowed full swing too long. He is becoming a demoralizing element in our politics. He is too much like the Irishman's flea—you can't put your finger on him with any certainty that you have got him.

Down this way the "prominent citizen" bobs up serenely ever now and then, but his eccentricities are not so marked as to excite any special wonder. In the doubtful states, however, he looms up a veritable giant, with a cheek of brass and the lungs of a Stentor. His inconsistency is too disgusting for anything. One day he is reported as working for Cleveland, then an esteemed contemporary puts him down as one of Widow Butler's main supports, while a correspondent learns from reliable authority that he is for Blaine. Occasionally he falls in with St. John's forlorn hope.

Now it is plain that the "prominent citizen" is too mercurial, too wavering, as it were, to be of much use to us in any capacity. It may have the appearance of a harsh and hasty judgment, but we are clearly of the opinion that he must go. As long as he is allowed to slosh around promiscuously, a potential factor, and yet an unknown quantity, disarranging the equilibrium of our politics with every lurch of his jim-jam whims, there can be no hope of maintaining the "internal bias" of our institutions, whatever that may be. This ought to settle it.

EDITOR DANA'S humor is genuine. He is about the only journalist in the land who would unmercifully support Butler after posting him as a contemptible demagogue.

EDITOR WATTERSON appears to be somewhat dissatisfied. He would make a good Butler man.

WHO was Shakspeare? This question has been repeatedly asked during recent years. All sorts of stories concerning the immortal bard have made their appearance, and some people even take stock in the idle tale that Lord Bacon wrote the plays attributed to Shakspeare. The controversy over the poet and his works started in this country sixty years ago. As far back as 1824 one Colonel Hart, of New York, wrote as follows: "John Shakspeare, the father of William, was very poor and very illiterate, notwithstanding what the ambitious commentators may say to the contrary. The coat-of-arms and the heraldry obtained for the family afterward was procured by fraud; and the proceeding is pronounced discreditable to 'the bard,' who had a hand in it. But the poverty of the family is nothing in this case except to show that William Shakspeare must necessarily have been an uneducated boy. He grew up in ignorance and viciousness, and became a common poacher—and the latter title in literary matters he carried to his grave. He was not the mate of the literary characters of the day, and no one knew it better than himself. It is a fraud upon the world to thrust his surreptitious fame upon us. He had none that was worthy of being transmitted. The inquiry will be who were the able literary men who wrote the dramas imputed to him?" This is said to have been the beginning of the controversy which still rages to-day.

IT is natural, of course, that some of the colored brethren should kick against Bryant and the white republican bosses, but kicking will do no good. Boss Bryant knows how to manage them.

THE people of Davenport, Iowa, have been victimized to a large extent by a madstone swindler. It seems that a certain Dr. Leo Harrison made his appearance in Davenport with fifteen madstones which he claimed would cure all diseases of the blood. The unusual number of madstones in the doctor's possession would have put most people on their guard, but the Davenporters saw nothing strange in it. They doubtless believed that the glib-tongued doctor had a madstone factory somewhere. For several weeks the imposter weeded a wide row. He took a greenhorn into partnership and by this stroke of business scooped $1,300. He received a fee of $260 from a female patient and borrowed her gold watch and chain. He got in debt to the tradesmen to the tune of $800 and then he skipped, madstones and all. As the heartless swindler may appear in other sections of the country, this paragraph will introduce him properly.

BUTLER will find that it is no easy matter to escape from Editor Dana.

THE prairie dog is looming up as one of the terrors of the future. Heretofore his ravages have been confined to the far west, but his line of march now takes in the state of Texas, and unless checked he may be expected to visit the south Atlantic states. From the Red river southward to the Colorado, millions of these peculiar pests are devouring the grazing country. As the prairie dogs are moving eastward at the rate of five miles a year it will be seen that their appearance in this region is only a question of time.

THE annual watch output of the world is six million tickers. Of this number 3,650 a day are made in the United States. The average life of a watch is five years. What becomes of it in its old age is not definitely known, but there are dark hints of the small boy and the pawnbroker. The hand-worker in Europe turns out forty watches a year, but the American machine worker makes 150. Our home made watches are driving out the foreign article, and we already monopolize the East Indian and the Australian markets and undersell the Swiss in Japan.

THE sweet potato vine is beginning to look mellow. The Georgia punkin yam is preparing to greet the smiling 'possum.

JEFF LONG'S response to a litte paragraph recently printed in these columns shows that he is one of the few unterrified colored men in Georgia. He defies Bryant, and refuses to be a spittoon-toter for the white brigade of officeholders. And yet the probability is that Bryant will whip the fight. He has his thumb on the great majority of the negroes in this state who call themselves leaders.

THE re-organization of the whisky ring is one of the signs of the times. Is the ring for Butler or [illegible]

DURING the heated term—the "silly season," as the French call it—society needs a little al fresco recreation not to be bound in watering place hotel life. The best way to spend a few weeks in July and August is to camp out in a picturesque region. The tenters can enjoy bathing, fishing, reading, sketching and flirting better than in the crowded hostelries. Every comfort can be carried along on the excursion, and a lady's tent may be made into a charming boudoir. The equipment is economical, the fun glorious, the open air invigorating. Society will plunge into camp life next summer if it knows itself.

THERE are various democratic editors throughout the country who are disposed to throw cold water in their friends' faces. These editors should be marched to the rear. There is a whitewashed hospital big enough for all such.

THE humorist of the New York Times works himself into a paroxysm of hilarity over the alleged thirty cases of hydrophobia at Eufaula, Alabama. The Times's funny man draws an amusing picture of rabid mules chasing thousands of citizens all over the state of Alabama and biting trouser legs in their most vulnerable sections. A little spice is thrown in concerning a couple of colonels whose trousers were chewed up by the rabid animals, and it is slyly suggested that Bourbon county whisky is at the bottom of the whole scare. A humorist who spends most of his time in the sky parlor of a nine story building may be able to laugh at hydrophobia, but thousands of people fail to see any fun in it.

POLITICAL NOTES.

CHICAGO HERALD: It is possible that the Tallapoosa conference may prove a boomerang to the party in whose interest it was held.

PHILADELPHIA TIMES: Edmunds hasn't announced himself for Blaine yet. He is against the democratic party, he says, but doesn't indicate whether he is for Butler, St. John or Blaine.

THE New York World jokingly remarked that "all the Hindoos are for Butler." Up jumps Mr. Drawka Nath Ray, M. D., L. S. A., of East Twenty-seventh street to deny the soft impeachment.

A DEMOCRAT from the extreme western part of Massachusetts reports that the defection to Butler is practically imperceptible in that locality. He does not believe that the general will get over a dozen votes in Pittsfield, and says that his hold all through that part of the state is weak.

SPEAKING of Daniel, the prohibitionist, the Chicago News says: He thinks Cleveland's public record is much superior to Blaine's and that the former is pre-eminently the better man for the presidency. In politics Mr. Daniel has always been a republican.

NEW YORK WORLD: The Albany correspondent of the Boston Herald, who has been doing some figuring on the probable result of the election in this state, gives Mr. Cleveland a plurality of 50,000. In his liberality he allows Butler 50,000 democratic votes, whereas he is not likely to poll 15,000.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

WHEREVER Gladstone travels by railway in England he is met at every station by large but not always enthusiastic crowds.

GENERAL BANKS'S principal distinction now is that he "was once an actor." Major James G. Blaine is still an actor, but not likely long to remain on the political stage.

MRS. PARNELL'S VIEWS.

A Strong Letter in which She Affirms Her Support of Democratic Principles.

Mrs. Parnell has written the following letter to the New York Star in reply to a communication in that paper questioning her support of Cleveland and upbraiding her for her attendance at the recent Irish democratic ratification meeting in New York:

> To the Editor of the Star: In all opportune things the love of liberty alone prompts me and prompts me now to free my party from the baleful light of a will-o'-the-wisp, viz: the statement of the "Irssh-American democrats" in Saturday's Star that a delegate to the Irish national convention secured my attendance at the democratic mass meeting. One needed not to be informed that said Irish-American's heart was not with us.
> The attraction, if such, of my presence was not even advertised, and I had and required no invitation. Away at Ironsides, of my own free will, I resolved to partake of the cheer, and asked Mr. Cranston, of the New York hotel, to be so good as to procure me an escort. I deny having been pressed or influenced in the matter. Like Mary Teazle, I deny the pillion. But one, a woman—one devoted to the politic art of cookery—patted me on the shoulder.
> We thank the Irish-American who hints that we ladies are considered so useful, and can further relieve his mind by assuring him that we need no man to teach us love and duty to our country in her hour of peril, for verily, peace has its victories as well as war. Does an Irish-American expect an American, one with traditions, to become an alien. Well, he is a know-nothing. I would do anything for my land, and out of the abundance of my heart would have spoken too, but that I feared what has happened—a shot manufactured by the False Report company against the party essential to my country's independence. Every American feature characterizes that party. The advantages it incorporated for citizens and strangers are its attractions. Our willing captives grace no Roman festival, but one held over the length and breadth of the land—that temple of the sun which sheds its equal rays on all alike; and another Olympiad is at hand, like that which so long ago for three-fourths of a century gave our constitution so many magnificent exponents. People have had time to forget that we have a constitution when they say matters are mixed. Our interests are increasing and need a democratic platform, naturally supporting the law and the will of the people, and not of the autocrat.

BLAINE'S CORRUPTION.

Cold Facts Showing How the Plumed Knight Accepted Two Bribes.

Harrisburg Cor. Warren, Pa., Ledger.

Charles H. Bergner surprised every one by indicating that he is not inclined to vote for Blaine. Mr. Bergner is a lawyer. His father was the postmaster for many years, the public printer and editor and publisher of the Harrisburg Evening Telegraph, the central party organ of the state. Dying a few years ago, his son succeeded to the ownership of the paper, and in 1876 was its editor in chief.

Everybody wanted an explanation.

"It is commonly believed," said Mr. Bergner, "that Blaine was defeated for the nomination in 1876 because he was obnoxious to the Cameron ring. There is nothing further from the truth and the only color for the statement lies in the fact that Senator Cameron was opposed to him. His defeat was accomplished by a disclosure made by William H. Kemble, who was a delegate from the fourth district, Philadelphia, and had no reference direct or indirect to the relations between Senator Cameron and Mr. Blaine.

"After the sixth ballot had been completed," continued Mr. Bergner, "it became evident that the issue would be decided on the next. The Pennsylvania delegates had been voting for John F. Hartranft in obedience to the resolution of the state convention. In order that the state might make itself felt in the succeeding ballot the delegation withdrew for consultation. While McMichael and General Bingham addressed themselves earnestly to the delegates in advocacy of voting for Blaine. At the conclusion of Mr. McMichael's remaks it was evident a deep impression had been made. Just as the votes were about to be taken, Mr. Kemble arose. He asked the delegates to pause in the matter, and gave his opinion that the nomination of Blaine would bring defeat to the party. He referred to the damaging stories that would be told and to the doubtful record Mr. Blaine had made during his public life. He drew from his pocket two cancelled checks, and continued: 'I never had any legitimate business transactions with Mr. Blaine. They are signed by me, made payable to his order and indorsed and returned to me through the ordinary channels of such things. When Mr. Blaine was speaker of the house of congress I was interested in some pending legislation. I asked his assistance in the way of favorable ruling. He agreed to rule as I asked for $5,000. I paid him the money with this check (exhibiting the $5,000 check). Subsequently Blaine came to me and demanded $2,500 more, and I was obliged to yield and made the second payment with this check (exhibiting the $2,500 check). 'Now,' said Mr. Kemble, 'I defy any man to dispute the genuineness of this endorsement in Blaine's handwriting. If he is nominated by this convention I will give these facts to the public, and his defeat is certain to follow. I have no objections to a man being bought, if he will stay bought, but I protest against him demanding the pay twice.'

"The effect of this speech was electrical," continued Mr. Bergner. "When Kemble sat down he handed the cancelled checks around among the delegates and they were examined carefully, critically. I had them in hand, am satisfied they were genuine. Immediately after the vote was taken and the delegation decided to cast its vote for Hayes. That vote decided the issue against Blaine.

While the balloting in the Chicago convention was in progress, General Simon Cameron, alluding to the same matter, said to a neighbor that it was evident that the people were for Blaine, but owing to the evidence against him it would be fatal to nominate him.

English as She is Spoke.

From the Chicago News.

Perhaps the most beautiful utterances the Hon. John A. Logan made in his recent tour of New York state was this: "The relentless hand of treason bad torn down the flag, trampled on it and spit upon it," etc. This was probably the same hand a Cincinnati reporter mentioned in his account of the death of a young lady at a ball: "The festivities were at their height," said the reporter, "when suddenly the pale hand of death stalked in." So it will be seen that the Hon. Logan is not the only person in the world to be addicted to bulls of this entertaining character. It was Logan, we believe, who, in the course of eulogy upon President Garfield, said: "At an early age he was overtaken by the bitter pill of adversity."

ON TRIAL FOR THEFT,

AND HELD BY THE TESTIMONY OF THE WOMAN HE LOVED.

Henry Jones's Letters to Rose Hill Produced in Court—Death of Mr. Ab. M. Lockett—Other Macon Matters—The Military Sisters' Battle—Other Personal Mention.

MACON, Ga., September 3.—[Special.]—The case of the United States against Henry Jones, the postal clerk, was called to-day before United States Commissioner John R. Haskins, in the United States courtroom.

Jones, it will be remembered, was arrested Sunday, charged with opening a letter on his run between Macon and Brunswick, and taking from it a draft containing $79.08, which was afterwards presented in Savannah to the bank on which it was drawn for payment by the Southern Express company, at Memphis, Tenn. It was traced to a woman in Memphis, with whom Jones was supposed to have been intimate, and who stated that she received it from him. His arrest followed and he gave bail.

Much interest was manifested by the negroes, a number being present this morning at the trial.

Messrs. Hartshorn and Livingston, United States inspectors, and District Attorney Darnell were present. The prisoner was represented by Messrs. Samuel Jemison and Walter B. Hill. The prisoner had been very persistant as to his innocence, and was anxious to have the trial go on. When the trial proceeded, the first witness was Inspector Livingston, who worked the case. He arose and said: "I do not know the defendant; was notified by wire to look out for important documents by mail at Huntsville, Alabama. Last Thursday received them and went to Memphis Saturday morning, and proceeded to the express office, saw the agent and asked if the draft was in his possession. Being held up told me that it was and that Messrs. Ladd and Smith, whose names were connected, were reliable gentlemen. Saw them both and called on the woman, Rosa Hill, in company with Smith, and she told me she had received the draft and had asked Mr. Smith to collect it for her, which he did. I then asked her where the letters were. She produced them and said she had destroyed the envelopes. I told her I wanted a written statement, which she gave me. She was not confused and did not hesitate, but regretted exceedingly its occurrence. When going to Macon was spoken of she said, "I would rather die than go back to Macon.

I WOULD DROWN MYSELF FIRST

in the Mississippi river before I would go a step."

She gave it freely, and I told her if she wanted to make any changes she could do so. The witness then produced a package of documents, in which was the

LETTER AUGUST 14TH, AS FOLLOWS:

> On the Train. Dear Rosa—Wrote you last night at Jessup, sent you post-office order—will express you a package from Macon to night, look out for it. Let me know how you are as early as possible, am more anxious about you than you would suppose. You might make the matter worse by being careless. Don't get mad now and act obstinate for there is no need of any such I will look for a letter next week, and I hope not to be disappointed. I will either send you money to-night or Saturday. I guess I had better inclose $5.00 in the package which I will send you to-night. I would put it in this letter, but don't want it to get lost. It is in the package. Lovingly,
> OTTIE.

The letter caused a murmur among the crowd. The inspector then produced the letter of August 16, which was as follows:

> Macon, Ga., August 16.—Dear Friend: I inclose you sight draft for $79.08, drawn on J. E. Walker and indorsed by him, now payable by whatever hands it may fall in. If you can't use it, return it to me at once. Present it to the doctor and get him to indorse it and have it cashed and give you all over the $50 that he charges you for services, which ought to be $25 at least, allowing $5 for discount. If he accepts telegraph me at Brunswick; not, telegraph me also. In it say "It's accepted and O. K." If he refuses say "It's rejected and can't be used." Don't sign your name. Let me know if you got money order with $10.06 in it, also if you got $5.00 and express package, etc. Your loving
> OTTIE.

The chain of evidence was becoming more closely linked, when the witness with a grim smile and a merry twinkle in his eye, produced

THE DEPOSITION OF ROSA HILL.

> Rosa Hill being duly sworn, says that she is a resident of Brunswick, Ga.; resided a number of years at Macon, Ga., from which place moved in 1877 to Brunswick; came to Memphis to visit an aunt on the 10th of August. About the 18th received a letter from Henry Jones, railroad clerk on East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad from Macon to Brunswick, in which was sight draft for $79.08, drawn in favor of J. E. Walker and indorsed by J. E. Walker. That on or about 20th August I gave the draft to J. N. Smith, of Memphis, Tenn., to collect for me. I am visiting my aunt, Mattie Mitchell, who cooks for Mr. Smith, and it was a matter only of convenience that Mr. Smith took the draft for collection. Have received a postal order from Henry Jones since I have been here and before the receipt of this draft for ten dollars, which was paid at the postoffice at Memphis. Received a package per express containing various favors, articles of no great value. I received a letter from Henry about every three days, sometimes oftener. I reside at Ringgold street, Brunswick, Ga., live with my mother and brother near the white Presbyterian church. A letter dated Saturday, August 16, signed "Ottie," and another dated August 14, signed "Lovingly, Ottie," are letters received by me from Henry Jones. "Ottie" is a pet name used by Jones in correspondence with her. I am positive these letters are from Henry Jones, and I know that he uses the signature of "Ottie" in corresponding with me. Don't know of Henry Jones using the name "Ottie" with anyone else, but am positive he uses it with me.
> ROSA HILL.
> Sworn begore me at Memphis, Tenn., this 30th day of August, 1884.
> J. H. LIVINGSTON, Postoffice Inspector.

This proved a regular eye opener and the counsel began to tilt at each other.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY DARNELL'S THEORY

was announced. As Jones being a clerk in the mail service came in possession of the letter containing the draft which was in condition to be paid to bearer, and he having formed some connection with Rose Hill in Brunswick, before she went to Memphis wanted to aid her. He sent the draft through the mails to her with specific instructions as to how to have it cashed. The case was continued that further testimony could be produced by the defense. His counsel then waived further examination and he was placed under a bond of $1,000 to appear before the United States district and circuit courts.

The Macon Bicyclists

TO HAVE A SERIES OF RACES—MUCH INTEREST MANIFESTED.

MACON, September 3.—[Special.]—Macon bicyclers are taking much interest in that manly sport and exercise. At the meeting Monday night it was decided to petition the council for a piece of ground somewhere in the city that they could build a track for the promotion of the interests of the club and have a series of races and other sports.

Mr. George T. Beland, the secretary and treasurer of the club was called on to-day. He said: "We are going to make bicycling to Macon, what Atlanta has made baseball. We are going to secure grounds and build a good track for the purpose of arranging a series of races and inviting members of other clubs to participate. We propose to have a display here during the state fair that will be larger and better than any gathering of bicyclers ever held in the south. Our club will be represented next week in Montgomery by Messrs. J. H. Polhill, J. C. Flynn, J. E. Slocum, Charles Gamber and Conrad Winburg, and we expect to bring back some of the money prizes.

Hotel Waiters Fight.

MACON, September 3.—[Special.]—This morning two negro waiters at the Lanier house—Peter Baker and Walker Whippler—had a bloody fight, in which Whippler was beaten in the head with a stick, causing the wound to bleed freely. The fight grew out of a wrangle among them. They were arrested and fined before the recorder.

They Fought for Him.

MACON, August 3.—[Special.]—Last night Walnut street, in rear of the Mulberry street Methodist church, was the scene of a lively fight between the good military sisters, a famous organization of the city composed of women, who are continually fighting each other. Last night they met at the house of Roda Toler and had a general melee over a man named John Smith, during which a woman named Ann Jenkin was badly beaten with a piece of iron by her rival. Both the Toler women and the latter were arrested and arraigned before the recorder this morning and fined. They were committed to the barracks, but were pardoned out later in the day.

Colonel A. B. Lockett Dead.

MACON, September 3.—[Special.]—The sad intelligence of the death of this prominent gentleman of Bibb county, reached the city to-day. He died at his residence, near Mimms crossing. He was formerly a member of the legislature, and was one of the honored presidents of the Ocmulgee farmers club. His death was a shock to his friends here.

[B]LOUNT RENOMINATED

[TH]E SIXTH DISTRICT RETURN[S] HIM UNANIMOUSLY.

[A] Worthy Servant Justly Honored—The Proceed[ings] of the Convention—Mr. Blount Speaks—A Short and Harmonious Session—The Next Executive Committee—Etc.

MACON, September 3.—[Special.]—The nomin[ating] convention of the sixth district, met in [the c]ourthouse to-day for the purpose of nominat[ing a] candidate to repsesent it in the next congre[ss]. The meeting was well attended and much int[erest] was manifested.

The convention was called to order by the cha[irman] of the executive committee, Ho[n.] John G. Phinazee, of Monroe. Ho[n.] Miller Greene, of Baldwin, was ma[de] temporary chairman, and Hon. Azel R. Freem[an] of Bibb, temporary secretary. The followi[ng] counties were represented by delegates:

Baldwin—E. Z. Brown, M. Grieve and Wal[ter] Payne.
Bibb—G. W. Gustin, C. L. Bartlett, C. L. And[erson], Jr., A. R. Freeman. Hugh McKervey, M. [...] Rodgers, W. T. Shinholster, and A. W. Gibson.
Butts—S. J. Lindsey, G. W. Thornton.
Crawford—R. D. Smith.
Jasper—G. T. Bartlett, F. C. Marks.
Jones—R. B. Hardeman, John T. Williams a[nd] John Middlebrooks.
Pike—T. C. Sullivan, J. B. Matthews.
Twiggs—E. S. Griffin, William M. Wimber[ly] and W. L. Solomon.
Wilkinson—G. D. Lee.
Upson—J. Z. Zorn and J. D. Alexander.
Monroe—B. F. Chambliss, J. G. Phinazz and [...] H. B. Bloodsworth.

On motion R. D. Smith, of Crawford, Hon. J. [D.] Alexander, of Upson, was made permanent pres[i]dent by a unanimous vote. Messrs. Anderson, [of] Bibb, Bartlett, of Jasper, and Payne, of Baldwi[n] escorted him to the chair.

Hon. D. G. Lee, of Baldwin, nominated Hon. Walter Payne, of Baldwin, for permanent secre[tary].

After the routine business was gone through Hon. John G. Phinazee arose and placed in nom[in]ation a citizen whom he said came up to the [J]effersonian rule, being honest, capable and eff[i]cient—the most efficient of all—who had lately represented Georgia and other states in the union in the halls of congress—one who was always at his post to watch the corruption and steals of un[s]crupulous men. He then nominated Hon. James H. Blount, and said: "We want to send him back with a boom. The nomi[na]tion was received with great cheering. Hon. R. D. Smith, of Crawford, seconded the nomination and said, "Those who know him best love him most. He has been the representative in the national council of this district since it was form[ed], and has been second to none. I predict that when the district will have been reappor[tioned] in the future he will be his successor many times for he cannot be redistricted out of the hearts of those who know him." There was much cheering after this. When it had subsided, Hon. Clifford L. Anderson, Jr., of Bibb, arose and read the following resolutions:

Whereas, The name of our present congressional representative, Hon. James H. Blount has been offered to this convention for renomination, and whereas, it is with reasonable pride that we contemplate his past record as a statesman and recognize that to this district and to the state at large he has been a faithful and efficient servant, one who had always at heart the interests of his people, and one who is endowed by nature with the ability and force to advance those interests; and, whereas, the very fact that his name is now in nomination before this convention, unopposed, is of itself the best proof of the high place that he holds in the esteem of his constituents, and of the perfect fitness for the position which his intellectual peers, as well as all others, must accord him.

Be it then resolved, That this convention, representing the democratic party of the sixth congressional district of Georgia, not only must heartily indorse the post record of Mr. Blount, but recommends him to the voters of the district, believing that they may safely entrust their interests to his hands, and that the Hon. Jas. H. Blount be nominated by acclamation as the party nominee.

NOMINATED BY ACCLAMATION.

At the conclusion of the resolution, the chairman put the question before the convention, and Mr. Blount was nominated unanimously, amid cheers. The chairman announced the result, and stated that it gave him pleasure to do so.

Mr. Smith, of Crawford, moved a committee of three be appointed to notify Mr. Blount of the result of the nomination. The chair appointed Messrs. Smith, of Crawford, Griffin of Twiggs, and Bartlett, of Jasper, to notify him. He appeared in the convention and on motion of Mr. O. H. B. Bloodworth, of Monroe, addressed the convention. He thanked the convention for its action, and made a ringing speech of a few minutes on the question of the hour with true democrats. He dwelt on the brand, of the republican party and in his referee to Blaine and Logan recalled an incident at the national capital, when he was called on by General Logan, who said: "There is fraud, sir, in South America, and Grant and other prominent republicans are in it." He announced that he would canvass the district and speak to his constituents on the issus of the day. When he had finished he was loudly applauded and congratulated.

THE NEW EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Hon. G. W. Gusting, of Bibb, moved that the delegates present place in nomination two gentlemen to act on the executive committee for the next two years. Hon. John D. Alexander, of Upson, was elected chairman of the committee. The following names were presented by the counties:

[B]aldwin—D. B. Sanford and I. L. Harris.
[B]ibb—W. R. Rogers, T. D. Tinsley.
[B]utts—H. N. Byars, B. W. Collier.
[Cr]awford—James Barfield, R. D. Smith.
[Ja]sper—Willis Newton, T. C. Marks.
[Jo]nes—Samuel Barrow, R. T. Ross.
[Mo]nroe—J. D. Phinazy, W. A. Worsham.
[Pi]ke—J. J. Rogers, M. B. Owens.
[Tw]iggs—D. M. Hughes, R. L. Harralson.
[Up]son—J. D. Alexander, F. J. Vining.
[W]illiam F. Chambliss, J. J. Butler.

[Th]anks were tendered the officers of the convention.

[It] was moved that the CONSTITUTION publish a [re]port of the meeting, and by Mr. Grieves, of [Bal]dwin, that the convention indorse Cleveland [an]d Hendricks, which was done with a unanimous vote, and the convention adjourned.

THE TRUCK FARMERS.

The Gathering of Melon and Fruit Men From Three States.

SAVANNAH, Ga., September 3.—[Special.]—The following railroad officials arrived here to-day en route to Thomasville to attend the convention of fruit growers of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida: Colonel T. T. Green, general southern agent C. N. O. and T. P. railway; J. J. Griffin, assistant general agent E. T. Va. and Ga. railway; J. M. Brown, general freight agent W. and A. railway; C. B. Wallace, coast agent L. and N. railway; A. Saws, general southern agent L. and N. railway, and Charles Harmon, freight agent W. and A. railway. The object is to ascertain the views and wishes of the fruit growers of the above named sections, and to form satisfactory arrangements for shipping next season. There is reason for the belief that the reduction in freight will be necessary in order to make a success of the crops move next season. Jas. L. Taylor, general freight and passenger agent of the S. F. and W. railway, will accompany the party down.

THE POOL ASSOCIATION.

The Southern Railroad Men Together in Louisville.

[L]OUISVILLE, Ky, September 3.—The South[ern] Association of the Railway and Steamship [Fre]ight men met in secret session here to-day. [Re]presentatives from the freight departments [of t]he Louisville and Nashville, the Cincinnati [Sou]thern, the East Tennessee, Virginia and [Geo]rgia, the Western and Atlantic, the Richmond and Danville, the Central of Georgia, the [Geo]rgia Pacific, and other southern and south-eastern roads were present. The afternoon was spent in discussing the proposed withdrawal of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company from the association, the future maintenance of the Macon and Atlanta cotton pool, and a uniform system of billing merchandise north of the Ohio river.

The secret session adjourned to-night. Secretary Sindall said he was not at liberty to make the proceedings at the meeting public at present, but intimated that all differences had been harmoniously adjusted. The association's territory was extended by resolution to pool all the business from the interior eastern points to the south. The board of arbitration will meet to-morrow to decide matters referred [to] them some time ago, the nature of which [wa]s not stated. From a member of the committee it was learned that the East Tennessee, [Vi]rginia and Georgia railroad will not withdraw from the association, and that Atlanta [and] Macon cotton pool will continue to exist.

Jones, it will be remembered, was arrested Sunday, charged with opening a letter on his run between Macon and Brunswick, and taking from it a draft containing $79.08, which was afterwards presented in Savannah to the bank on which it was drawn for payment by the Southern Express company, at Memphis, Tenn. It was traced to a woman in Memphis, with whom Jones was supposed to have been intimate, and who stated that she received it from him. His arrest followed and he gave bail.

Much interest was manifested by the negroes, a number being present this morning at the trial. Messrs. Hartshorn and Livingston, United States Inspectors, and District Attorney Darnell were present. The prisoner was represented by Messrs. Samuel Jemison and Walter B. Hill. The prisoner had been very persistent as to his innocence, and was anxious to have the trial go on. When the trial proceeded, the first witness was Inspector Livingston, who worked the case. He arose and said: "I do not know the defendant; was notified by wire to look out for important documents by mail at Huntsville, Alabama. Last Saturday received them and went to Memphis Saturday morning and proceeded to the express office, saw the agent and asked if the draft was in its possession. Being held up told me that it was, and that Messrs. Ladd and Smith, whose names were connected, were reliable gentlemen. Saw them both and called on the woman, Rosa Hill, in company with Smith, and she told me she had received the draft and had asked Mr. Smith to collect it for her, which he did. I then asked her where the letters were. She produced them and said she had destroyed the envelopes. I told her I wanted a written statement, which she gave me. She was not confused and did not hesitate, but regretted exceedingly its occurrence. When going to Macon was spoken of she said, "I would rather die than go back to Macon.

I WOULD DROWN MYSELF FIRST

in the Mississippi river before I would go a step." She gave it freely, and I told her if she wanted to make any changes she could do so. The witness then produced a package of documents, in which was the

LETTER AUGUST 14TH. AS FOLLOWS:

On the Train. Dear Rosa—Wrote you last night at Jessup, sent you postoffice order—will express you a package from Macon to night, look out for it. Let me know how you are as early as possible, am more anxious about you than you would suppose. You might make the matter worse by being careless. Don't get mad now and act obstinate for there is no need of any such. I will look for a letter next week, and I hope not to be disappointed. I will either send you money Friday night or Saturday. I guess I had better inclose it in the package which I will send you to-night. I would put it in this letter, but don't want it to be lost. It is in the package. Lovingly,

OTTIE.

The letter caused a murmur among the crowd. The inspector then produced the letter of August 16, which was as follows:

Macon, Ga., August 16.—Dear Friend: I inclose a sight draft for $79.08, drawn on J. E. Walker and indorsed by him, now payable by whatever hands it may fall in. If you can't use it, return it to me at once. Present it to the doctor and get him to indorse it and have it cashed and give you over the $50 that he charges you for services, which ought to be $25 at least, allowing $5 for discount. If he accepts, telegraph me at Brunswick; if not, telegraph me also. Just say "It's accepted and O. K." If he refuses say "It's rejected and can't be used." Don't sign your name. Let me know if you got money order with $10.06 in it, also if you got $5.00 and express package, etc. Your loving

OTTIE.

The chain of evidence was becoming more closely linked, when the witness with a grim smile and a merry twinkle in his eye, produced

THE DEPOSITION OF ROSA HILL.

Rosa Hill being duly sworn, says that she is a resident of Brunswick, Ga.; resided a number of years at Macon, Ga., from which place moved in ... to Brunswick; came to Memphis to visit an aunt on the 10th of August. About the 18th received a letter from Henry Jones, railroad clerk East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad from Macon to Brunswick, in which was a draft for $79.08, drawn in favor of J. E. Walker and indorsed by J. E. Walker. That on or about 20th August I gave the draft to J. N. Smith, of Memphis, Tenn., to collect for me. I am visiting my aunt, Mattie Bell, who cooks for Mr. Smith, and it was a matter only of convenience that Mr. Smith took the draft for collection. Have received a postal card from Henry Jones since I have been here before the receipt of this draft for ... dollars, which was paid at the postoffice in Memphis. Received a package per express containing various favors, articles of no great value. Received a letter from Henry about every three days, sometimes oftener. I reside at Ringgold ..., Brunswick, Ga., live with my mother and father near the white Presbyterian church. A letter dated Saturday, August 16, signed "Ottie," and another dated August 14, signed lovingly, "Ottie," are letters received by me from Henry Jones. "Ottie" is a pet name used by him in correspondence with her. I am positive the letters are from Henry Jones, and I know he uses the signature of "Ottie" in correspondence with me. Don't know of Henry Jones using the name "Ottie" with anyone else, but am positive he uses it with me.

ROSA HILL.

Sworn to before me at Memphis, Tenn., this 30th day of August, 1884.

J. H. LIVINGSTON, Postoffice Inspector.

This proved a regular eye opener and the counsel began to tilt at each other.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY DARNELL'S THEORY

was announced. As Jones being a clerk in the service came in possession of the letter containing the draft which was in condition to be paid to bearer, and he having formed some connection with Rose Hill in Brunswick, before she went to Memphis, wanted to aid her. He sent the draft through the mails to her with specific instructions as to how to have it cashed. The case continued that further testimony could be secured by the defense. His counsel then waived further examination and he was placed under a bond of $1,000 to appear before the United States district and circuit courts.

BLOUNT RENOMINATED.

THE SIXTH DISTRICT RETURNS HIM UNANIMOUSLY.

Worthy Servant Justly Honored—The Proceedings of the Convention—Mr. Blount Speaks—A Short and Harmonious Session—The Next Executive Committee—Etc.

MACON, September 3.—[Special.]—The nominating convention of the sixth district, met in the courthouse to-day for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent it in the next congress. The meeting was well attended and much interest was manifested.

The convention was called to order by the chairman of the executive committee, Hon. John G. Phinazee, of Monroe. Hon. Miller Greene, of Baldwin, was made temporary chairman, and Hon. Azel R. Freeman, of Bibb, temporary secretary. The following counties were represented by delegates:

Baldwin—E. Z. Brown, M. Grieve and Walter Payne.

Bibb—G. W. Gustin, C. L. Bartlett, C. L. Anderson, Jr., A. R. Freeman, Hugh McKervey, M. R. Rodgers, W. T. Shinholster, and A. W. Gibson.

Butts—S. J. Lindsey, G. W. Thornton.

Crawford—R. D. Smith.

Jasper—G. T. Bartlett, F. C. Marks.

Jones—R. B. Hardeman, John T. Williams and John Middlebrooks.

Pike—T. C. Sullivan, J. B. Matthews.

Twiggs—E. S. Griffin, William M. Wimberly and W. L. Solomon.

Wilkinson—G. D. Lee.

Upson—J. Z. Zorn and J. D. Alexander.

Monroe—B. F. Chambliss, J. G. Phinazz and O. H. B. Bloodsworth.

On motion R. D. Smith, of Crawford, Hon. J. D. Alexander, of Upson, was made permanent president by a unanimous vote. Messrs. Anderson, of Bibb, Bartlett, of Jasper, and Payne, of Baldwin, escorted him to the chair.

Hon. D. G. Lee, of Baldwin, nominated Hon. Walter Payne, of Baldwin, for permanent secretary.

After the routine business was gone through, Hon. John G. Phinazee arose and placed in nomination a citizen whom he said came up to the Jeffersonian rule, being honest, capable and efficient—the most efficient of all—who had lately represented Georgia and other states in the union in the halls of congress—one who was always at his post to watch the corruption and steals of unscrupulous men. He then nominated Hon. James H. Blount, and said: "We want to send him back with a boom. The nomination was received with great cheering. Hon. R. D. Smith, of Crawford, seconded the nomination and said, "Those who know him best love him most. He has been the representative in the national council of this district since it was formed, and has been second to none. I predict that when the district will have been reapportioned in the future he will be his successor many times for he cannot be redistricted out of the hearts of those who know him." There was much cheering after this. When that subsided, Hon. Clifford L. Anderson, Jr., of Bibb, arose and read the following resolutions:

Whereas, The name of our present congressional representative, Hon. James H. Blount has been offered to this convention for renomination, and whereas, it is with reasonable pride that we contemplate his past record as a statesman, and recognize that to this district and to the state at large he has been a faithful and efficient servant, one who had always at heart the interests of his people, and one who is endowed by nature with the ability and force to advance those interests; and, whereas, the very fact that his name is now in nomination before this convention, unopposed, is of itself the best proof of the high place that he holds in the esteem of his constituents, and of the perfect fitness for the position which his intellectual peers, as well as all others, must accord him.

Be it then resolved, That this convention, representing the democratic party of the sixth congressional district of Georgia, not only must heartily endorse the past record of Mr. Blount, but recommends him to the voters of the district, believing that they may safely entrust their interests to his hands, and that the Hon. Jas. H. Blount be nominated by acclamation as the party nominee.

NOMINATED BY ACCLAMATION.

At the conclusion of the resolution, the chairman put the question before the convention, and Mr. Blount was nominated unanimously, amid cheers. The chairman announced the result, and stated that it gave him pleasure to do so.

Mr. Smith, of Crawford, moved a committee of three be appointed to notify Mr. Blount of the result of the nomination. The chair appointed Messrs. Smith, of Crrwford, Griffin of Twiggs, and Bartlett, of Jasper, to notify him. He appeared in the convention and on motion of Mr. O. H. B. Bloodworth, of Monroe, addressed the convention. He thanked the convention for its action, and made a ringing speech of a few minutes on the question of the hour with true democrats. He dwelt on the brand, of the republican party and in his referee to Blaine and Logan recalled an incident at the national capital, when he was called on by General Logan, who said: "There is fraud, sir, in South America, and Grant and other prominent republicans are in it." He announced that he would canvass the district and speak to his constituents on the issus of the day. When he had finished he was loudly applauded and congratulated.

THE NEW EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Hon. G. W. Gusting, of Bibb, moved that the delegates present place in nomination two gentlemen to act on the executive committee for the next two years. Hon. John D. Alexander, of Upson, was elected chairman of the committee. The following names were presented by the counties:

Baldwin—D. B. Sanford and I. L. Harris.
Bibb—W. R. Rogers, T. D. Tinsley.
Butts—H. N. Byars, B. W. Collier.
Crawford—James Barfield, R. D. Smith.
Jasper—Willis Newton, T. C. Marks.
Jones—Samuel Barrow, R. T. Ross.
Monroe—J. D. Phinazy, W. A. Worsham.
Pike—J. J. Rogers, M. B. Owens.
Twiggs—D. M. Hughes, R. L. Harralson.
Upson—J. D. Alexander, F. J. Vining.
William F. Chamblins, J. J. Butler.

Thanks were tendered the officers of the convention.

It was moved that the CONSTITUTION publish a report of the meeting, and by Mr. Grieves, of Baldwin, that the convention indorse Cleveland and Hendricks, which was done with a unanimous vote, and the convention adjourned.

THE TRUCK FARMERS.

The Gathering of Melon and Fruit Men From Three States.

SAVANNAH, Ga., September 3.—[Special.]—The following railroad officials arrived here to-day en route to Thomasville to attend the convention of fruit growers of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida: Colonel T. T. Green, general southern agent C. N. O. and T. P. railway; J. J. Griffin, assistant general agent E. T. Va. and Ga. railway; J. M. Brown, general freight agent W. and A. railway; C. B. Wallace, coast agent L. and N. railway; A. Saws, general southern agent L. and N. railway, and Charles Harmon, freight agent W. and A. railway. The object is to ascertain the views and wishes of the fruit growers of the above named sections, and to form satisfactory arrangements for shipping next season. There is reason for the belief that the reduction in freight will be necessary in order to make a success of the crops' move next season. Jas. L. Taylor, general freight and passenger agent of the S. F. and W. railway, will accompany the party down.

THE POOL ASSOCIATION.

The Southern Railroad Men Together in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky, September 3.—The Southern Association of the Railway and Steamship freight men met in secret session here to-day. Representatives from the freight departments of the Louisville and Nashville, the Cincinnati Southern, the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, the Western and Atlantic, the Richmond and Danville, the Central of Georgia, the Georgia Pacific, and other southern and south-eastern roads were present. The afternoon was spent in discussing the proposed withdrawal of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company from the association, the future maintenance of the Macon and Atlanta cotton pool, and a uniform system of billing merchandise north of the Ohio river.

The secret session adjourned to-night. Secretary Sindall said he was not at liberty to make the proceedings at the meeting public at present, but intimated that all differences had been harmoniously adjusted. The association's territory was extended by resolution to pool all the business from the interior eastern points to the south. The board of arbitration will meet to-morrow to decide matters referred to them some time ago, the nature of which is not stated. From a member of the committee it was learned that the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad will not withdraw from the association, and that Atlanta and Macon cotton pool will continue to exist.

SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Captain F. W. Dawson Sure that Cleveland Will Reach the White House.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 3.—[Special.]—Captain F. W. Dawson, the gifted editor of the Charleston News and Courier, was in Columbia yesterday in attendance upon the meeting of the state democratic executive committee. He has lately been spending a good deal of time in New York city confering with the leaders of the national democratic party. As a member of the national executive committee he has enjoyed exceptionably favorable opportunities for observing the progress of the great political canvass. I had a brief but pleasant conversation with Captain Dawson last night. He describes in glowing words the gratifying sweep of the democratic hosts of the north and west. He expresses his complete satisfaction with the manner in which the campaign is conducted by the democracy, and avers that every day Cleveland's star is gaining new brightness. Things look much more promising now than they looked three weeks ago; the candidacy of Butler instead of benefiting Blaine, will actually prove prejudicial to his interests and indirectly assist Cleveland. States which hitherto have been reckoned so firmly placed in the republican column as to be relinquished by the democrats without a struggle have now become debatable ground and the republicans are straining every nerve to carry them. The democrats of the north and west are jubilant over the glorious prospects and when Tammany, next Friday night, publicly proclaims Cleveland and Hendricks as its choice, the campaign will have gained a wonderful impetus. Captain Dawson will return to New York city in a few days. He is the most cheerful democrat I have met in many a day.

TROUBLE IN RICHLAND.

The Negroes Going to Put Up a Ticket for Local Officers.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 3.—[Special.]—A colored man of this county, who has been a violent republican ever since he was freed from slavery, and who has frequently cut a disgraceful figure at mass meetings and conventions, was very conspicuous in the county republican convention which lately met in Columbia. This fellow Lopez is an employe of the revenue department. He is one of those hopeful, persistent radicals that confidently expects the democracy to be overthrown and the thieves again placed in power. He is not without influence with his race, and his bad advice is generally followed by his dusky supporters. He now urges the negroes of Richland county to make a fight for the offices, and holds out before them a flattering prospect of success. Other political hacks of his stripe join in this bad advice to the negroes. The result will be that they will nominate a ticket and endeavor to stir up a bad feeling between the whites and the blacks. Of course they will be ignominously defeated. It is admitted by whites and blacks that Richland county is wisely officered and the affairs of the county economically and justly administered. Even the negroes have to acknowledge that we have a better county government now than for many years. Why, then, should the scheming politicians seek to overthrow this honest and capable board of public servants to turn the offices over to the ignorant and the corrupt? The democracy of old Richland, is fully able to avert so lamentable a catastrophe.

The South Carolina Greenbackers.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 3.—[Special.]—It is hard to find out anything about the greenback convention which meets in Columbia to-morrow. Very few of the delegates have thus far arrived, and they are a pretty rough looking set of hungry office-seekers. I have tried to interview some of the delegates, but they decline to be questioned, or rather refuse to answer any questions. It has not yet transpired where they will hold their convention. They will doubtless select some inaccessible room which shall be out the prying reporter's reach. The present indications are it will be a sorry gathering. I do not believe any white man of respectability will have anything whatever to do with the meeting. There are a few genuine greenbackers in the state, men of principle and intelligence, but none are to be found among the adherents of J. Hendrix McLane. The sandhillers, those benighted people that live in the sterile region northeast of Columbia, they are the bone and sinew of the greenback party of Richland county.

A Burglar's Escape.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 3.—[Special.]—A negro thief entered Arthur McKnight's sleeping apartment about midnight, and stole a lot of clothing and a fine gold watch. The burglar was discovered just as he was making way with his plunder, and chase was given by Mr. Moore, who has charge of the livery stables adjoining McKnight's premises. The negro was caught and the stolen goods recovered. While Moore was escorting him to the police station, the thief got away and successfully eluded his pursuers. He has not been heard of since.

The State Board of Examiners.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 3.—[Special.]—The state board of examiners of South Carolina met this morning in the office of the state superintendent of education. The following gentlemen, who compose the board, were present: Colonel A. Coward, the Hon. J. S. Murray, of Anderson; H. P. Archer, of Charleston; Colonel R. W. Boyd, of Darlington, and Professor R. Means Davis, of the South Carolina university. Several important questions touching the department of public education were discussed.

The Cincinnati Exposition.

CINCINNATI, September 3.—The twelfth industrial exposition was opened this morning, but the formal opening exercises occurred to-night. These consisted of addresses by Senator George H. Pendleton, and representative John F. Fallett, and a concert by the orchestra, chorus and organ.

Honors to Stanley.

DUBLIN, September 3.—The London correspondent of the Dublin Express asserts that General Lord Wolsely was so impressed by an interview with Henry M. Stanley, that he immediately offered the famous explorer an appointment in connection with his staff. Stanley asked if such an appointment implied employed in the queen's service, and General Wolsely assured him that it did. Stanley thereupon obtained permission from the king of the Belgians, president of the African international association, to accept this new honor, and willstart immediately for Egypt.

The Cleveland Male School.

TALLADEGA, September 3.—[Special.]—Professor W. B. Kittrell, principal of the male high school in this city, having completed his new school building on South street, named it the Cleveland high school, in honor of our candidate for the presidency. He has just received the following letter from Grover Cleveland:

Executive mansion, Albany, New York, August 30th, 1884, to W. P. Kittrell, Talladega, Alabama: Dear Sir—I am much pleased to learn from your letter that you think well enough of my name to attach it to the institution which you have founded for the education of youth. Hoping for the complete success of the Cleveland male high school, and that many will hereafter have reason to gratulate themselves upon an opportunity to avail themselves of its advantages, I am yours sincerely,

GROVER CLEVELAND.

The Blaine Libel Suit.

INDIANAPOLIS, September 3.—In the United States district court to-day, Judge Woods overruled the demurrer filed by the defense in the Blaine-Sentinel suit. The attorneys for the defense appeared, and announced that the Sentinel's answer would be ready to-morrow, and Blaine's counsel waived the formality of ruling on the demurrer to the answer. The Sentinel's counsel say it will not be possible for them to be ready for trial before November, for the reason that most of the witnesses live at a great distance from Indianapolis and a great deal of work will be required in taking depositions.

The Supposed Murderer.

SAVANNAH, Mo., September 3.—Thomas Bateman, son of a prominent farmer, has been arrested on suspicion of being the person who outraged and murdered two girls in Andrew county on Sunday. If the proof is positive he will undoubtedly be lynched.

A Fatal Fast.

READING, Pa., September 3.—Mrs. Washington Keller, residing at Strausstown, this city, who has been fasting for the past forty-eight days, died to-day from starvation. She had been affected with religious ferver, and began her long fast after the reading of Christ's fast in the wilderness. When she was well she weighed 275 pounds, but was reduced to less than 100 pounds at her death.

AUGUSTA WINS.

Atlanta Loses the Game by 7 to 3—The Pop and Go's To-Day.

A unique ball game will be played at Athletic park to-day.

The "Pop and Go's," the famous country club, of Jackson county, will cross bats with the Atlantas. The "Pop and Go's" is made up of young farmers, but they are rattling players. A few years ago Mr. Jim Jackson, a well-to-do farmer, living near Athens, determined to organize a baseball club. He bought bats, masks, balls, bases, and a complete outfit, and subscribed for the New York Clipper. The young athletes he gathered about him developed splendid powers—swift runners, fine throwers, strong batters they made an unusually strong team. They challenged the country, and soon had plenty of games. They beat everything they tackled, and have never lost a single game. Michael, their pitcher, is a sensation—swift and powerful. They have been practicing ever since the crops were laid by and are in excellent trim. They will arrive by the fast mail on the Georgia road, and a rattling game may be expected.

The Atlantas realize that the country wonders will be hard to beat, and will put up their very strongest team. The game will be one of the best ever seen at Athletic park. Don't miss it.

Yesterday's Game.

Yesterday's game between the Augustas and the Atlantas was one of the most interesting of the season, and was witnessed by a good crowd. The Augustas won the game by 7 to 3. The Atlantas went in with Masaran and Hunter as their battery. Augustas battery was Troy and Merritt. The game was closely played. Augusta went to the bat first, and made one run in the first inning. The Atlantas made one in their first inning, and the clubs were each skunked in the next. On her third inning Augusta made two runs and Atlanta made one. On the fourth inning both sides were skunked. On the fifth inning Atlanta made nothing and Augusta made two. On the sixth Atlanta made one and Augusta made two. Goose eggs filled out the other three innings.

The batting of Mr. Heard, of the Augustas, was particularly fine and drew out several encores from the audience. The Augustas left for home last night. They leave many warm friends behind them in Atlanta.

A Ravisher Fatally Shot.

SCRANTON, Pa., September 3.—This afternoon the wife of Thomas Reel, sexton of the Catholic cemetery at Hyde park, heard a girl screaming in the woods. She soon found the young lady being assaulted. Reel approached the ruffian, who made a move to draw a pistol, when Reel shot him in the head, spattering his blood and brains on the girl. The girl was Annie Fisher, of Carboudale, visiting in this city. She said she had gone out to walk with a female friend who introduced her to two young men. They proposed going to a picnic and when the party got to the woods, the girl's female companion deserted her. Reel delivered himself to the authorities. The wounded man is Thomas Mangan, an employe of the steel mills. He will die.

The Constitution's Progress.

From the Milledgeville, Ga., Chronicle.

We failed in our last issue to refer to an event which, as a sign of the times, is a notable one, aside from its influence upon various interests in our state. We allude to the marked step forward, made by THE CONSTITUTION, in its removal into its own splendid six story building, planned, built and furnished so as to supply every appliance and convenience to carry on the work of a great daily journal. The discription of the new Hoe printing press, just received and put up, its great cost and its capacity as a machine for printing—throwing off 15,000 twelve page CONSTITUTIONS every hour, or four every second—all would afford matter for wonder to those unacquainted with such matters, but we have no room for it.

Forty-five years ago the writer walked through the original forest where THE CONSTITUTION is now printed and there was no building near, save a log cabin of one room, and not three acres of cleared land. What a change has taken place. That untouched forest has vanished, to give place to the most progressive city in the south and all the enterprises, inventions, the luxuries and the refinements of a high civilization exist where less than half a century ago, the solitude of a wilderness held sway. Surely, in view of these facts, the step in advance of THE CONSTITUTION, above noted, is a sign of the times—a sign of the enterprise, the intelligence and the enlightened industry of the people who have wrought such changes in so brief a period. Who may prophecy what they and their descendants will accomplish in the next half century?

THE CONSTITUTION has kept full step with the progress of Atlanta, and having said that, enough is said. It is too well known to need commendation for its enterprise, and we can only congratulate its proprietors on their past success and wish them equal prosperity in the future; and as it is the leading democratic paper of the state, it must be a pleasure to the state democratic press in general to note the high position it has achieved for itself among the leading journals of the union.

The Biggest Thing in America.

From the Berrien County News.

THE CONSTITUTION of the 18th contained a picture of its new building and press, and a history of the paper from its beginning. Many are disposed to look upon the success of THE CONSTITUTION as phenomenal, but we do not. The same amount of brains, energy, tact and perseverance, as has always been displayed by the management of that paper, would make a success of any enterprise. We have always looked on THE CONSTITUTION as the biggest thing in the south, and now we consider it the biggest thing in America.

FOREIGN BREVITIES.

The arrival of the czar at Warsaw has been postponed to September 8th.

Lower Austria was visited by an earthquake shock yesterday. At Wiener Neustadt, the people rushed from church thoroughly panic stricken. The shock was no where of sufficient severity to cause damage.

CHEWING-GUM.

The Making of it From Chicle an Accidental Discovery.

From the New York Tribune.

"Do schoolgirls chew as much gum as ever? Why, bless my soul, such a question! And do you think schoolgirls are the only people who chew gum?"

The wealthy proprietor of a large chewing-gum factory leaned back in his handsome chair in his handsome office down town and laughed. When the laugh was out he straightened up, and taking a small silver case out of his waistcoat pocket, opened it, and handed the reporter a piece of gum, and putting a piece in his own mouth, rolled it as a sweet morsel under his tongue. During this operation he emitted various remarks upon the subject of his attack, and dwelt with emphasis upon the history of his gum.

"It was in 1850, I believe," he said, "that I went to Mexico, and while there I collected many specimens of the products of the soil of that wonderful country. I kept them as curiosities and carefully laid them away. In 1867 I began to experiment with some of them, among them the gum chicle, a substance similar to rubber. I thought I had discovered the way to cheapen the production of hard rubber goods by adulterating with this chicle. Success seemed certain, and about 25,000 pounds of the gum were collected and brought to New York, and the business was begun. After expending considerable time and money and patience the project was abandoned because the gum could not be successfully vulcanized. I gave up in despair. After a while I tried other experiments, such as adapting it to cable purposes, making glue and so forth, all of which proved failures. I then tried to sell the stuff; but as it was entirely unknown to the trade, and possessed no recognized value, no offer could be obtained. In the meantime the goods lay in a storehouse, the charges running up all the time, till I considered the advisability of throwing the whole of it into the North river. All hope of ever being able to dispose of it departed.

"One day, as I was leaning against a confectioner's counter, I saw a little girl come in and heard her ask the proprietor for a penny's worth of mastic chewing-gum. Instantly the idea flashed through my mind, why could not chicle be made into a chewing gum. I immediately began to experiment with it and after some months of hard study and many disappointments success was achieved. When the manipulation of the chicle was so far developed as to produce a beautiful white substance, I applied for a patent and so became the sole proprietor of the business. Thus, by accident, as it were, the discovery was made. The gum is known all over the world, it has increased year by year in favor and is now an important item in the stock of every jobbing confectioner, grocer and druggist, and is handled extensively by the notion trade.

"The fruit of the tree from which the chicle exudes is called sapodilla. It is about the size of an apple, delicious in flavor, and largely used by the natives of Mexico as an article of food. The gum is collected by tapping the trees as we tap the maple. It runs out freely, and is moulded in the sand into cakes, hardening in the sun, and is brought to market on pack mules, each mule carrying about twelve arrobas, or 300 pounds. When the Indians, or natives, start out on a long journey across the country they always provide themselves with chicle in order to allay the pangs of thirst, for by chewing the gum the mouth and throat are kept moist and the desire for water is diminished."

"Does chewing-gum possess any merits?"

"Humph! I should say so! There are—"

A handsomely-dressed woman entered the office and the speaker turned toward her.

"Will you sell me some chewing-gum?" she said.

"Certainly, madam. How much do you wish?" in his politest tone.

"Only a small box."

"But we do not sell at retail at all."

She seemed much disappointed. "I suffer so much from dyspepsia," she resumed, "and your gum is the only thing that will relieve me. Where can I buy it?"

She was directed to a confectioners and went out.

"That's one merit," said the smiling caterer to the schoolgirl's appetite. "I know plenty of people who relieve their dyspepsia in the same way, and cure their indigestion. You see, the action of the jaws in chewing releases the saliva, which goes into the stomach; and the saliva being one of the principal elements of digestion, must bring about a healthy condition of those organs. For the same reason the appetite is improved. The digestion being perfect, a vacancy is created and a desire for food must follow."

"Who are the gum chewers?"

"Mostly children. Women and young girls do their share. Men chew to a considerable extent, and I know many a case where slaves to tobacco have been cured by chewing gum. If men didn't chew tobacco they would be as fond of gum as women are. Negroes are fond of gum, and you never meet a colored girl that has not her mouth full of it. The great gum chewing states are Kentucky, Illinois and Ohio, in the order named. The Kentuckians must eat it. I don't see how else they dispose of so much of it."

"Is gum-chewing economical?"

"Well, yes. Here is a piece that I have been chewing on for three months. It is just as big and as good as when I first put it in my mouth. Can't wear it out."

"Is the use of gum increasing?"

"Every day."

Overpowering.

From the Buffalo Courier.

When John P. St. John's dyed mustache overshadows a schooner of lemonade the effect is said to be picturesque.

Started With a Lucky Number.

From the Kentucky State Journal.

"I hear Gail Fisher, who left here a few months ago, is married and living in Indianapolis. Did he marry well?"

"Oh, yes; he married well. He was well when he married."

"No joking. I mean did he get a good start by marrying?"

"Oh, yes; he got a good start. He married a widow with seven children."

Texas Idyl.

I'm a Buzzard from the Brazos, on a tear;
Hear me toot!
I'm a lifter of the flowing locks of hair;
Hear me hoot!
I'm a Racker from the Rockies,
And of all the town the talk is,
"He's a Pirate of the Pampas,"
On the shoot.

Those who love me call me "Little Dynamite."
I'm a pet.
I'm a walking, stalking Terror of the Night,
You can bet.
By my nickel-plated teasers
Many a rusty-featured Greaser's
Sun has set.

Sometimes I strike an unprotected town,
Paint it red,
Choke the sheriff, turn the marshal upside down
On his head,
Call for drinks for all the party,
And if chinned by any smarty,
Pay in lead.

I'm a coyote of the sunset, "Prairie Dude,"
Hear my zip!
In the company of gentlemen I'm rude
With my lip.
Down in front! Remove that nigger,
Or I'll perforate his figure!
I am fly, I am flighter, I am flip!

—Texas Siftings.

A MARVEL OF NATURE.

Strange Stories of Walking and Talking in Sleep.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sleep-talking is one of the most marvellous curiosities of sleep. It is sometimes connected with somnabulism, but more frequently manifested alone, and often speaking to a somnambulist at once awakens him, and, if in a perilous position, results fatally. Dr. Binns tells of a young man aged 18 of robust constitution, who went from Syria from a town on the Black sea to pursue his studies at the gymnasium. After falling asleep he would arise and utter most remarkable declamations. Sometimes he recited long speeches from Xenophon with perfect accuracy, though when awake he could only remember a few lines. One night he wrote the theme he had to deliver the next day. In the morning, having overslept himself, he was vexed at not having prepared himself for his tutor, and wondered much when he discovered the theme completed and lying on the table before him. The archbishop of Bordeaux speaks of a subject who asked for a glass of brandy to warm him. As there was none at hand they gave him water, but he at once detected the cheat and again demanded brandy. He was given a glass of strong liquor, seemed refreshed and lay down without waking. There is a remarkable case related of a young American lady who preached during her sleep, performing regularly every part of the Presbyterian service, from the psalms to the benediction. She was the daughter of respectable and wealthy parents. The fell into bad health, and, under its influence, disturbed her family by her nocturnal eloquence. Her unhappy parents, at first surprised and perhaps flattered by the exhibition of so extraordinary a gift in their family, finally concluded it was the result of disease, and, thinking a change of scene would improve her, visited New York and other great cities of the union. She would preach at night on board steamboats, and at tea parties she was put into an adjoining room in order that the guests could witness her extraordinary performances. Her sermons, although they had the appearance of connected discourses, consisted principally of a jumble of texts.

Nominations.

PALESTINE, Texas, September 3.—The democrats of the second district to-day renominated John H. Regan for congress.

NEWARK, N. J., September 3.—The republicans of the sixth district to-day nominated George A. Halsey for congress.

A Sad Case.

From the Boston Globe.

"Oh, My Ittle Utsey Bumpey—How has it been getting on since its Freddie left? Does it kiss its little sweet self for its Freddie every two free minutes as it said it would? It won't forget to meet its Duckey at the car station to seving o'clock this evening? Please don't. Bump oo, bite oo, kiss oo, squeeze oo, pound oo fat head on the wall.

OWN FREDDIE."

Key to the above—This is one of those affairs that need a "map" with it. It is a copy of a bona fide letter written by a young man suffering in the last stages of a somewhat frequent disease called "long engagement." It is a sad case. He was formerly known to the writer as a bright young person. The doctors only hold out one hope now. They do say a good dose of marriage will cure him. "Bumpey" is a girl called by sane people, "Fannie."

Good Enough.

From the Kansas City Times.

All in all, to sum up, this has been about as good a summer as the average mortal runs across.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movements in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, September 3—The chief interest on 'change to-day was centered in corn, and speculation in near deliveries in that cereal was active with a higher range of prices. Wheat showed very little life, fluctuations being confined with a range of ⅜c The market closed about the same as yesterday to a shade higher. Receipts here and at St. Louis were smaller, but an increase was shown at some of the other primary points. The closing figures for the day were 79⅝c for September, 81⅛c for October, 82⅞c for November and 84⅛c for December.

The aggregate business in corn was large, a good demand existing for cash corn. Near deliveries were well supported throughout the entire session while new crop futures ruled easy. On the afternoon board the feeling continued firm, September option closing at an advance of 1⅝c over yesterday. The latest quotations were 53⅝c for September, 50⅛c for October and 45⅛c for November.

Oats ruled quiet but steady, closing at 25⅝c for September and 26⅛c for October.

Pork continued dull, closing at $19.00 for September and October and $12.30 for all the year.

Lard was steady at $7.47½ for September and $7.55 for October.

[E]LLIS, ABBOTT, THOMA[S]

[W]HAT IS WHAT THE PEOPLE SA[Y] AT THE POLLS YESTERDAY.

Captain W. D. Ellis, Colonel B. F. Abbott and Colonel John Thomas Chosen as the Candidates of the Fulton Democracy to Represent Us—A Quiet Election Day.

Ellis, Abbott, Thomas!

That is the way the votes in yesterd[ay's] primary counted out.

The election was a general surprise, no[t so] much on account of the result, but on acc[ount] of the size of the vote. It was generally [ex]pected that there would be a light vote, [but] when night came it was found that a[bout] twenty-five hundred or more snowy ba[llots] had been dropped into the various boxes. [It] is probable that the fact that there w[ere] workers at the polls, and no carriages [or] hangers on tended to increase the general [be]lief that there was an exceedingly light v[ote]. Another fact worthy of note may be ment[ion]ed. The voters for the most part were of [the] best classes, and the loafers and floating vo[ters] were few and far between. Altoge[ther] the primary was a highly creditable one [and] was in keeping with the decent and ord[erly] way in which Georgia democrats always [do] things up.

The polls in the city were kept open u[ntil] seven o'clock last night to allow working[men] a free and full chance to cast their ballots [af]ter work hours, and large numbers of th[e] honest toilers called by the [pre]cincts and cast their ballots for the men [of] their choice. Several county precints [have] been heard from at seven o'clock, bu[t of] course they only went to make up a g[rand] total, and gave only a slight indication [of] the final result. The counting of the [bal]lots in the two city precints proceeded slo[wly] until midnight and both were counted [at] about the same time.

Below the result at each precinct is giv[en], only two in the entire county being mis[sing] and they are small and could not effect [the] result:

NORTH ATLANTA DISTRICT.

The delegates to the senatorial convention were elected without opposition. The convention will meet to-day in the senate chamber and will nominate Mr. Tigner, of Clayton. The following were the delegates elected yesterday: R. L. Barry, S. F. Kincannon, T. J. Buchanan, A. J. McBride, J. T. Pendleton, J. M. Liddell.

THE DAY WITH THE POLICE.

A Burglar's Attempt to Enter Colonel E. Y. Clark's Residence Yesterday.

About four o'clock yesterday morning Patrolman Parish was doing his beat on Mitchell street, he was approached by a young man who informed him that he had just seen a negro enter Colonel E. Y. Clark's yard. The patrolman approached the residence, which is on the corner of Mitchell and Forsyth streets and as he came in sight observed a negro trying to raise the front window. This looked suspicious, and Patrolman Parish attempted to crawl upon the would-be burglar quietly, but as he reached the porch on which the negro was standing, the negro sprang over the railing and skipped. The patrolman gave chase and fired at the fugitive two or three times, but without effect. An examination of the place showed that the thief had attempted to break two windows open.

RELEASED YESTERDAY.

Edward Dexheimer, the young man who was arrested night before last by Patrolman Nelan, was released yesterday. Yesterday morning Dexheimer's place was searched and some goods recovered, but during the day the complaint against him was withdrawn, and he was released. Dexheimer paid the cost.

WILEY'S CASE COMES UP.

Jule Wiley, the young white man who raised the row at Carrie Ross's house, Monday night, was before the recorder yesterday morning. He and Carrie were both assessed a fine and cost each. The evidence against Wiley was very damaging and he was asked to make a bond for $200 or go to jail to await a trial for assault and battery.

DUKE BADGER OUT.

Duke Badger, the darkey who drove the cold steel into his breast at his home a few nights ago, was out yesterday, looking much the worse for his wound.

PATROLMAN GLOER GOES OFF.

Patrolman Joe Gloer, one of the shrewdest and most influential members of the force, has gone to North Carolina to visit relatives. Some of Patrolman Gloer's friends say that relatives means a big piece of detective work is on hand, while others say that relatives are too many, and he has gone to see—. Patrolman Gloer is a widower.

A RUNAWAY CAR.

Some Boys Start a Flat Car on a Wild Trip to the River.

A novel runaway occurred in Atlanta yesterday morning. During Tuesday night several flat cars had been left standing on an East Tennessee side track near Jones street bridge. Early yesterday morning some idle boys let the brake off and then got behind the car and began pushing it, little thinking of the result. Their united efforts started the car, because it was standing on a down grade and with smiles on their faces they pushed harder. Finally the car began rolling freely and within twenty feet started off at a good speed which increased until the car went out of sight. As it went it increased in velocity and when it passed the exposition grounds it appeared to be flying. The grade to the river is down and the car did not stop until it reached the river. Fortunately while it was making its wild run no train was due on the track between the river and the city.

LLS, ABBOTT, THOMAS.

HAT IS WHAT THE PEOPLE SAID AT THE POLLS YESTERDAY.

Captain W. D. Ellis, Colonel B. F. Abbott and Colonel John Thomas Chosen as the Candidates of the Fulton Democracy to Represent Us—A Quiet Election Day.

Ellis, Abbott, Thomas!

That is the way the votes in yesterday's primary counted out.

The election was a general surprise, not so much on account of the result, but on account of the size of the vote. It was generally expected that there would be a light vote, but when night came it was found that about twenty-five hundred or more snowy ballots had been dropped into the various boxes. It is probable that the fact that there were no workers at the polls, and no carriages and hangers on tended to increase the general belief that there was an exceedingly light vote. Another fact worthy of note may be mentioned. The voters for the most part were of the best classes, and the loafers and floating voters were few and far between. Altogether the primary was a highly creditable one and was in keeping with the decent and orderly way in which Georgia democrats always do things up.

The polls in the city were kept open until seven o'clock last night to allow workingmen a free and full chance to cast their ballots after work hours, and large numbers of these honest toilers called by the precincts and cast their ballots for the men of their choice. Several county precints had been heard from at seven o'clock, but of course they only went to make up a grand total, and gave only a slight indication of the final result. The counting of the ballots in the two city precints proceeded slowly until midnight and both were counted out about the same time.

Below the result at each precinct is given, only two in the entire county being missed and they are small and could not effect the result:

A WOODCUT'S WORK.

How The Temperance Advocate Created a Considerable Stir.

Considerable excitement has existed for a day or two among the friends of Mr. Eugene Robinson, who was lately killed by Fred White. The cause of the excitement was a lengthy article and a cut, printed in the Temperance Advocate of this city, which is just out. The article is a very severe criticism upon the municipal authorities who license bar rooms, and charges that the city for $300 legalizes murder pens and gives men the liberty to manufacture murderers. The paper calls loudly for the church to rise and denounce the evil of liquor selling, to expel the drunkard, the saloonist and the man who rents a building for a saloon. The following paragraph will give an idea of the intense state of feeling under which the author of the article labored:

Too good to sell the deadly stuff themselves, heeding not the cry of misery, want and woe, coming out of the vile deadly dens of their creation, the grasp the glittering gold paid over to them by the devil's agents, their tenants, filling to the brim their coffers with blood money, crushed from the bleeding hearts of their victims and their friends. And then on prayer meeting nights and Sabbath days, while rum is being dealt out by their loyal agents—on bended knee they defile God's sanctuary and hurl insults at His throne by appealing to Him for protection for themselves and their loved ones. With sacrilegious lips they pronounce the name,

"OUR FATHER."

It was not the article so much as the cut that gave offense to the friends of Mr. Robinson. It represents a saloon, in front of which a ragged and besotted looking young man in a drunken sleep is piled among barrels and boxes. His smashed beaver lays by his side, and upon the wall of the saloon is a sign, "Specimen of the work done inside." Beneath the cut are the words: "Poor Eugene Robinson, their last victim." With people who knew Mr. Robinson and who had seen the old cut before the publication produced only a smile, as it was impossible for one to imagine that Mr. Robinson had ever been in such a situation. Many of his friends, however, felt that the cut was intended as a cartoon and took it as an insult offered the dead. Yesterday Mr. P. E. Murray, a brother-in-law of Mr. Robinson called on Mr. J. G. Thrower, the editor of the Advocate, to secure an explanation. Mr. Thrower was not in but on his arrival at the office he learned that Mr. Murray had been there. He then addressed him the following note, which seems to have satisfied Mr. Robinson's friends that no reflection on the young man was intended:

ATLANTA, Ga., September 3.—Mr. P. E. Murray—Dear Sir: I am informed that you called at my office during my absence in reference to a cut appearing in the Temperance Advocate of August 30, and seemed to think it was intended to represent Mr. Robinson, which would be a reflection on the dead as well as the living. I desire to say that the cut was in no way intended to represent any person particularly. We dealt not with the individual represented in front of the saloon, but the saloon itself. The object of its publication was to draw the attention of voters to the matter of licensing liquor shops, in which so many murders are committed. We said nothing unkind of Mr. Robinson, and our unbounded sympathy goes out to his bereaved family. It was the cause of the murder and not the murdered that we struck at.

Very respectfully, JAMES G. THROWER, Manager S. T. P. A.

DR. GRAY'S SON RUN OVER.

Henry Hackett, a Careless Dray-Driver, Seriously Injures Charlie Gray.

Master Charlie Gray, the six year-old son of Dr. James A. Gray, was knocked down and run over at the corner of Marietta and Broad streets, by a careless driver yesterday morning.

Dr. Gray and Mrs. Gray and their son were walking down Marietta street, and when crossing Broad street the accident occurred. The young boy was in front of his parents and had just reached the middle of the street as his parents were stepping off the sidewalk. At the same time Henry Hackett came lumbering down Marietta with a milk wagon and turned into Broad just as Master Charlie reached the middle of the street. The negro was driving at a terrible rate, and several persons standing by saw the child's condition and ran forward to rescue him, but they could not move fast enough and the child was knocked down by the mule and ran over by the wagon. The accident in all its details was seen by the mother, and her grief was painful to see. The darkey quickly realized what he had done, and with a view to escaping the consequence struck his mule and started off, but Dr. Gray, fully alive to the carelessness of the driver, grabbed the bridle and detained the outfit until Patrolman Abbott come up and took charge of him. Almost before the wagon was still, Mrs. Gray sprang forward regardless of the danger, and picking up her son carried him to the sidewalk, her heart at a standstill. The little fellow gave no utterance to the great pain he was evidently enduring but bore it with great bravery. His clothing was awfully soiled and his face was covered with blood and dirt indicating the belief among those present that he had been seriously injured. He was quickly carried into Dr. Gray's office, in the Fitten building, and the dirt and blood were then washed away. His wounds were carefully examined and, although it was feared at first that he had sustained internal injuries, it was ascertained that a few scalp wounds and a general shock was the result. Last night the little fellow was doing quite well. He suffered a great deal with pains in his head but bore his sufferings finely. The negro was locked up and to-day will answer in police court the charge of disorderly driving.

THE SICK AND AFFLICTED.

Mrs. Hilburn, wife of Mr. Frank A. Hilburn, has been quite ill at her residence, 44 Walker street, for some days past. She was much better yesterday, and her many friends hope to see her out soon again.

Miss Nellie Byrd, the talented and accomplished correspondent of the Sunny South, has had quite a severe time since reaching home. Her broken limb mended slowly and gave her a great deal of trouble, but yesterday she was so much better that she hopes to drop her crutches in a day or two.

Yesterday a stranger was suddenly seized with an attack of heart disease in Durand's dining rooms. Mr. Durand hurriedly called in Dr. Todd, and with his great kindness of heart did all he could to relieve the stranger. Dr. Todd found that the man was subject to heart disease and soon brought him around all right.

Miss Maggie McKenzie, who has been quite ill at No. 50 Forsyth street, is convalescing.

Henry Marshal, who was nearly suffocated by coal gas night before last, was much better yesterday.

Major Morgan, who fell down the stairway at 116½ Whitehall, Tuesday evening, was able to be up yesterday morning.

UNDER THE WATER.

THAT IS WHERE THE DEAD BODY WAS FOUND.

Master Edward N. Carney, Who Lived on Marietta Street, Goes Bathing in Eighteen Inches of Water and is Drowned—How Two Grandfathers Met by the Pond—Etc.

Edward N. Carney, a fourteen-year-old boy, whose parents reside near the Bellwood church, was drowned yesterday about noon in eighteen inches of water near Cook's voting precinct.

Young Carney's parents are in moderate circumstances and the boy was not required to work. This was partly due to the fact that the child had been subject to fits all his life and that his health was never too good. Yesterday he was at home for dinner and ate a hearty meal and soon after dinner informed his mother that he was going off to see some companions. He did not state where the companions were, neither did he say where he was going or when he would be back, and as he left the house he passed out of his parents' sight only to be brought back dead. After he left the house nothing was seen of him until he was found dead, as far as has yet been ascertained.

About half-past two o'clock a small boy who lives near Cook's approached Mr. Charles Bishop, who was aiding in the management of the election at that precinct, and informed him that he had found some clothing near an old pond in the neighborhood of the voting place. At first Mr. Bishop paid

NO ATTENTION TO THE BOY'S PRATTLE,

but finally, as a descrption of the wearing apparel was being repeated in his presence, he turned his attention to the boy's recital. The clothing was described accurately and so corresponded with the clothing Mr. Bishop's grandson wore, that with forebodings of evil he left the voting precinct and followed the lad to the pond. There on the bank he found the clothing and a hurried examination added to his already strong suspicion that his grandson had found a watery grave in the pond. A negro man had followed Mr. Bishop to the pond and turning to the negro Mr. Bishop hired him to go in and search for the body, so certain was he that the owner of the clothing was under the water. The negro divested himself of his pantaloons and started in, but before he had gone a dozen steps turned back and refused to go in again. Mr. Bishop then waded into the water, and after scraping his feet about on the bottom of the pond, struck something which he stooped down and picked up. As Mr. Bishop's hands came in contact with the object which his feet had struck under the water, he knew that it was a child, and with a rapidly beating heart he drew it out, feeling certain that his eyes would rest upon his grandchild, but when the face parted the waters and came to view Mr. Bishop was made glad by seeing that he was mistaken. However, he knew that he held in his hands and gently and tenderly he carried the body to the bank and prepared to attempt to revive it if possible. As he reached the bank Mr. Benjamin Harris came up, and at a glance recognized the child as his grandson. Mr. Harris then stated that he had heard that some child had been drowned in the pond while he was at the voting precinct, and through curiosity passed the pond on his way back home. His surprise at finding that it was his grandson was greatly affecting, but with a vim he and Mr. Bishop began rolling the body around trying to force the water out, but their labors were useless, and at the end of a half hour they ceased, realizing that the boy was dead. The picture then presented was a sad one. On the bank was the boy's clothing, while near the bundle lay the nude figure. On either side stood a grandfather—one glad at heart that the dead boy was not his kin but deeply sorry for the other, whose grief was great. Finely Mr. Bishop took his coat from his back and placing it over the dead boy lead Mr. Harris quietly away. The sad intelligence was sent to his mother and father and in a short while their dead darling was carried home. Their grief as they vewed the body was past all conception. His affliction had endeared him to their hearts and to him their tenderest and most devoted love had been given.

SOMEBODY'S DARLING,

CORONER HILBURN WAS NOTIFIED

of the death and in the evening held an inquest. At the inquest the fact was ascertained that the boy had been subject to spasms which usually lasted from two to seven minutes, and which were followed by a total unconsciousness for a half hour. It could not be ascertained whether or not any one was with the boy when he went into the pond, but it is believed that he was alone and that he was seized with a spasm soon after entering the water. The water was only eighteen inches deep, and his death was quick. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by drowning while under the influence of a spasm.

LOST HIS MONEY.

An Employe of the East Tennessee Road Loses $89.50.

Mr. R. M. Wood, an employe of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, lost a month's wages a few days ago. Mr. Wood had just drawn his money and placing it in his watch pocket in his pantaloons started for his boardinghouse with the intention of paying his board and then depositing the balance. But when he reached his home it was too late to pay the bill and Mr. Wood retired thinking that he could liquidate it early the next morning. Before day, however, he was notified that he would have to take an extra train out. Getting up and dressing hurriedly he left without thinking of his money, but when a few miles out of the city the unpaid board bill recurred to his mind and instinctively his hand sought his pocket to find the money still present. A few miles this side of Macon there is a lunch stand. The trains stop there to "take on" water, and to the lunch-dealer Mr. Wood was indebted a dollar and a quarter. When at the station or tank Mr. Wood entered the lunch house to pay his bill, but when he put his hand in his pocket he was astonished to find the money gene. Hurriedly he went back and searched the train and his engine, but no trace of the funds could be found. He says he can't imagine when, nor where nor how he could have lost it, as he is confident he had the money a few moments before meeting the gentleman to whom he owed the $125. Mr. Wood is a hard working young man, and this will seriously interfere with him, at least for a few months. He says he would not mind losing it if he had paid his board.

Pound Entertainment.

To-night at the residence of Mr. G. A. Howell, West End, the ladies will have a "pound party" for the benefit of the Methodist church now being built there. The friends of the enterprise and of the West End people are cordially invited to be present, each carrying a pound of something good to be auctioned off by some of the young men. It may be that Colonel Adair, the best hand in the business anywhere, can be induced by some of the young ladies to sell some of the articles. The cause is a worthy one and a large crowd with plenty of fun is expected.

The County Republicans.

The republican executive committee of the county met yesterday morning at ten o'clock in the United States court room. There was a full attendance. W. D. Moore was chosen chairman; W. T. B. Wilson secretary; E. A. Johnson assistant secretary, and Charles McHenry treasurer. It was decided to hold a county convention on the 13th, for the purpose of putting out a ticket of representatives for the lower house of the general assembly. The ratification meeting to-night promises to be a lively affair.

Illicit Whisky Makers.

Deputy Marshal Campbell came down from Gilmer county yesterday with William Fouts, who was taken before Commissioner Boyd, who sent him to jail on a charge of illicit removing and concealing. James Moss, of Pickens, went to jail on a similar charge.

BURGLARIZING A STORE.

Menko's Clothing House Broken Into and a Choice Lot of Goods Taken.

Between one and five o'clock yesterday morning burglars effected an entrance in Menko's clothing house, on Whitehall street, at the corner of Alabama, and carried away about one hundred and fifty dollars worth of goods.

The burglars first entered Youngblood & Hall's commission office, on Alabama street, and then tearing open the partition between the two rooms entered the store. It is yet unknown how the burglars got into Youngblood & Hall's as the door was securely locked when the house was closed Tuesday night, but it is thought that the burglars were experts and used a skeleton key. On the street, near the front of the building, bright street lamps threw enough light into the store to enable the burglars to select what they wanted, and from the goods taken it is quite evident that their taste was excellent. From the ready made clothing they took such suits as suited their fancy and from the underwear they took the finest. Their selection of shirts, collars, cuffs, cravats and buttons was excellent. The finest silk handkerchiefs, shoes and hats were also taken. After selecting their stock, the burglars packed them in good valises and quietly took their departure. During the early hours yesterday morning Patrolman Bedford, who was on the beat in which the store is located, found the door open and reported it to Captain Couch. Later, Captains Couch and Crim and the patrolman entered the place, and early detected the fact that a burglar had been in the place. Information of the affair was quickly sent to Mr. Julius Menko and Mr. Joseph Caldwell, who responded hurriedly, and by a casual examination, stated that the articles taken would probably amount to one hundred and fifty dollars. The police department is working the case with vengeance, but so far no clue has been obtained. The burglary was evidently committed by some one who knew that the store was unprotected, on account of the watch then being kept over Mr. Menko's dead body.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Ed Johnson, a Cobb County Lady, and Her Daughter Under Arrest.

There was a good deal of a stir around the United States courthouse yesterday on account of a dispatch received from Mrs. Ed Johnson, the wife of the man who recently swore out several warrants against citizens of Cobb county, charging them with conspiracy. Johnson, it will be remembered, swore out the warrants before Commissioners Smith and Perkle several weeks ago, and the men were arrested. They were charged with conspiring to injure and bulldoze Johnson who had been a witness against them in the federal court. When the day for the trial came up Johnson could not be found. It is charged that warrants against him had been procured in Cobb county, and he was afraid to show up. The trial hung fire for some time. Johnson was arrested day before yesterday and jailed in Fulton county jail so as to make sure of his appearance as a witness. The trial was set for to-day, but yesterday Mrs. Johnson telegraphed that she and her daughter had been arrested on state warrants in Cobb county, and could not come. The federal officers are fired up to a pretty high pitch, and it is probable that there will be arrests of whatever parties were concerned in the arrest of the woman and the girl. It is believed that a lively trial will be the result of the affair. It is said that the whole thing grew out of an indictment of Johnson for stealing pine off the lands of Groover, one of the men now under bond for trial in this conspiracy case. The whole affair seems to be a tempest in a teapot.

THROUGH THE CITY.

Short Scraps Picked up by Our Reporters.

Mr. Charles Goetting's body was laid to rest yesterday.

The landscape artist is working on the West View cemetery.

The board of aldermen had nothing of importance before them yesterday.

Broad street is now the prettiest, handsomest and best avenue in the city.

The whole town will go out to-day to see the young farmers tackle the professionals at Athletic park. The famous "Pops" will play the Atlantas.

The Kennesaw Rifles are arranging a ball and exhibition drill for an early date.

Mr. Joseph Menko's funeral occurred yesterday morning and was largely attended.

The Pop and Go's and Atlanta will cross bats to-day. The Pops are, perhaps, the best country club in America, and it will be town against country.

Mr. Hilburn is arranging for the appearance in Atlanta of two professional billiard players and will have a series of games at his billiard rooms.

The Pop and Go's who play the Atlantas to-day have played fifty-one games, and have never been beaten. The Atlantas will try and down them to-day at the park. Game at 3:30—25 cents.

A Unique Game of Ball To-Day.

The sensation of the season is promised to-day in the match game between the famous Pop and Go club, of Jackson county, and the Atlantas. The Pop and Go's are young farmers, who learned to throw by chunking squirrels out of trees, and to run by following fox hounds on foot, or coon-chases in the moonlight. They have played ball for years under the best training and have never been beaten, though have met such clubs as the Clinches. Their pitcher, Michael, must be a wonderful man, if half that is said of him is true. They say his ball has no curve, but is so swift that it is impossible to bat it effectively.

The Pops have been practicing daily since July 1st, for this game. They rendezvoused at Athens last night, and accompanied by a number of farmers of Oconee, Walton and Jackson, will be here on the first train to-day. The game will draw an immense crowd, and will be well worth seeing.

Dr. Jonson Not Gone.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—While thanking you for the kindly tone in which you make mention in your morning's issue of my rumored departure from the city, I yet must ask to somewhat amend the statement. First, your informant seems less in doubt as to the removal than I am. He also assigns a date (two weeks) too near for me to conform to. This last is the point I especially desired to correct, otherwise some of my patrons may be misled; and business, the exacting tyrant it is, be slightly jostled.

I may further add that the move, if move it shall be, is intended as a kind of trial trip, as I am so fortunate as to find the opportunity of thus safely testing a change I have long desired: as to its effects upon the health of my family not the less than on that of a pocket to which a generous tonic might prove acceptable.

MR. EDITOR—I have read with interest the items that have appeared in your columns from time to time, setting forth the merits of Harter's Iron Tonic, and desire to add a word on my own account. He Was Cured of Mineral Poisoning.

OGLETHORPE, Ga., August 25th, '84.

When a young man I took mercury in pills, and was exposed to the weather, being a railroad man. The result was salivation and the poisoning of my whole system with mercury. I suffered untold misery for many years. Finally an ulcer developed on my right leg, produced by the mineral poison. From this I suffered great pain, and amputation was regarded as the only remedy. Refusing to have my leg cut off, I resorted to Swift's Specific, S. S. S., and it cured up the ulcer sound and well, and built up my general health, and I think has added ten years to my life.

We have used Swift's Specific, S. S. S., in our family as an antidote for malarial poisoning fortwo or three years, and have never known it to fail in a single instance. As a tonic it has no superior. On the farm on Flint river, we have noticed that it prevents the absorption of malaria and eliminates it from the system.

Not to Sue.

ATLANTA, Ga., September 3, 1884.—Editors Constitution: In your issue of to-day it is stated that I would likely sue the street car company for damages on account of the accident of yesterday. I suppose this conclusion was arrived at by your reporter from the fact that most persons receiving injuries at the hands of common carriers, or other corporations, want damages. I gave no intimation to any one of such intention on my part. I was hurt through wanton carelessness of the car driver and will (so my physician says) carry scars on my face the balance of my life as reminders of the same. Still I have no intention, at present at any rate, of bringing suit against the company.

Respectfully, HUBERT CULBERSON.

A SOLID PLUG!

REYNOLDS, GA., OCTOBER, 1, 1882.—THIS Rwill certify that Sarah Holmes came to my place the first of January last. Sarah is a girl about sixteen years old. She was feeble and emaciated, has been sick a long time, with an open cancer on her breast. I employed Dr. Christopher to take charge of her case, about the first of April. He soon destroyed the cancer, and it came out in one entire plug, and left a cavity that you could hide a hen egg in, and the girl was soon well. F. E. GLOVER.
